Man vs. machine: Experimental evidence on the quality and perceptions of AI-generated research content Keenan, Michael, Koo, Jawoo, Mwangi, Christine, Karachiwalla, Naureen, Breisinger, Clemens, Kim, MinAh, 2025-02-24 Academic researchers want their research to be understood and used by non technical audiences but that requires communication that is more accessible in the form of non technical and shorter summaries The researcher must both signal the quality of the research and ensure that the content is salient by making it more readable AI

tools can improve salience however they can also lead to ambiguity in the signal since true effort is then difficult to observe We implement an online factorial experiment providing non technical audiences with a blog on an academic paper and vary the actual author of the blog from the same paper human or ChatGPT and whether respondents are told the blog is written by a human or AI tool Even though AI generated blogs are objectively of higher quality they are rated lower but not if the author is disclosed as AI indicating that signaling is important and can be distorted by AI Use of the blog does not vary by experimental arm The findings suggest that provided disclosure statements are included researchers can potentially use AI to reduce effort costs without compromising signaling or salience Academic researchers want their research to be understood and used by non technical audiences but that requires communication that is more accessible in the form of non technical and shorter summaries The researcher must both signal the quality of the research and ensure that the content is salient by making it more readable AI tools can improve salience however they can also lead to ambiguity in the signal since true effort is then difficult to observe We implement an online factorial experiment providing non technical audiences with a blog on an academic paper and vary the actual author of the blog from the same paper human or ChatGPT and whether respondents are told the blog is written by a human or AI tool Even though AI generated blogs are objectively of higher quality they are rated lower but not if the author is disclosed as AI indicating that signaling is important and can be distorted by AI Use of the blog does not vary by experimental arm The findings suggest that provided disclosure statements are included researchers can potentially use AI to reduce effort costs without compromising signaling or salience

Prompt Engineering for Generative AI James Phoenix, Mike Taylor, 2024-05-16 Large language models LLMs and diffusion models such as ChatGPT and Stable Diffusion have unprecedented potential Because they have been trained on all the public text and images on the internet they can make useful contributions to a wide variety of tasks And with the barrier to entry greatly reduced today practically any developer can harness LLMs and diffusion models to tackle problems previously unsuitable for automation With this book you ll gain a solid foundation in generative AI including how to apply these models in practice When first integrating LLMs and diffusion models into their workflows most developers struggle to coax reliable enough results from them to use in automated systems Authors James Phoenix and Mike Taylor show you how a set of principles called prompt engineering can enable you to work effectively with AI Learn how to empower AI to work for you This book explains The structure of the interaction chain of your program s AI model and the fine grained steps in between How AI model requests arise from transforming the application problem into a document completion problem in the model training domain The influence of LLM and diffusion model architecture and how to best interact with it How these principles apply in practice in the domains of natural language processing text and image generation and code
