Long-Form Content is the Future JOSHUA. KING, 2022-12-07 There is a massive push toward short form low value content On the surface it looks like there is a good rush But this will be a fad that lasts a few years It takes seven touches with a consumer before they make a purchase So unless people watch 7 15 TikTok videos from one person chances are they won't spend any money Long form content warms the consumers and builds an audience Once someone knows likes and trusts a creator they spend money on products and services Short form content is still valuable as a commercial for long form content But long form content will still be the driver of building massive audiences that spend money Good Luck
