AI for Families is a roadmap for working through all of these decisions together. Most importantly, AI for Families is about embracing the deeply human traits of curiosity, creativity, empathy, and connection that will serve children well into the future. The goal isn't competing with AI but raising kids who can work alongside new technology while owning and celebrating what makes us uniquely human. This might just be the moment where families get to come together, celebrate our collective humanity, and take ownership of the technology that can guide us toward greater discoveries and a better world. We just need to start talking and claiming this future as our own.

We Can Teach That Ewa Dziedzic-Elliott, 2024-11-28

Information literacy is a complex subject that finally arrived at the doorstep of school libraries. For decades, academic researchers have been trying to capture the essence of information literacy, its educational, cognitive, and civic value. The collection of book chapters offered in We Can Teach That is a handbook that can be used as an inspiration for teaching various types of literacy: visual, digital, multicultural, health, and more. The book asks important questions: When do we start teaching information literacy? How do we teach it? How does it affect our students at their education level? How does it prepare them for their post-high school adult life? Does it impact their transition to college or career? Dziedzic-Elliott and her collaborators provide a range of best practices and concepts that inspire thinking about teaching information literacy at all levels. Although written with school librarians in mind, the book can be easily adapted by teachers, school administrators, and even public librarians who are looking to incorporate information literacy elements in their daily practices. The book challenges the reader to rethink what they know about digital or tech literacy, breaks some stereotypical concepts about multicultural literacy, and highlights the importance of literacies even in adulthood.
