Optimal Physical Activity across the Lifespan for People of All Abilities Ronald F. Zernicke ,David Arthur Hart, Humans evolved to be mobile within the boundary conditions of Earth and many biological and physiologic systems depend on mechanical loading to maintain integrity during growth and maturation during skeletal maturity and during the aging process These systems subscribe to the use it or lose it principle and thus require continual use to maintain integrity Given that premise considerable basic and clinical research efforts have been directed at optimizing the effectiveness and positive impact of exercise on sports performance and the well being of those with intact systems However those with disabilities or compromised abilities also benefit from exercise protocols and there exists a need to focus attention on these populations as well Given the myriad of biological and physiological systems that benefit from exercise and mechanical loading there is a need for all humans of varying abilities to not only maintain the integrity of their health but to attempt to optimize it recognizing that optimizing each person s health across the stages of the life cycle may require different exercise protocols dependent on stage of life sex genetics and other individualized variables For those with physical disabilities embracing and maintaining such exercise protocols may be challenging but expanded research translation of findings and integration of the outcomes into everyday life to enhance the health and well being of this significant population are needed going forward

Introduction to Expert Systems Peter Jackson,1999 In May 1997 IBM s Deep Blue defeated the world chess champion Gary Kasparov showing that an artificial intelligence system can outplay even the most skilled of human experts Since the first expert systems appeared in the late sixties we have seen three decades of research and development engineering human knowledge to more practical ends in a pioneering effort that has integrated diverse areas of cognitive and computer science Today expert systems exist in many forms from medical diagnosis to investment analysis and from counseling to production control This third edition of Peter Jackson s best selling book updates the technological base of expert systems research and embeds those developments in a wide variety of application areas The earlier chapters have been refocused to take a more practical approach to the basic topics while the later chapters introduce new topic areas such as case based reasoning connectionist systems and hybrid systems Results in related areas such as machine learning and reasoning with uncertainty are also accorded a thorough treatment The new edition contains many new examples and exercises most of which are in CLIPS a language that combines production rules with object oriented programming LISP PROLOG and C are also featured where appropriate Interesting problems are posed throughout and are solved in exercises involving the analysis design and implementation of CLIPS programs This book will prove useful to a wide readership including general readers students and teachers software engineers and researchers Its modular structure enables readers to follow a pathway most suited to their needs providing them with an up to date account of expert systems technology Peter Jackson is Director of Research at West Group a division of The Thomson Corporation and the leading provider of information to the US legal market Peter drives the application of natural language and information retrieval technologies to the information needs of law and business Previous appointments include Principal Scientist at the McDonnell Douglas Research Laboratories in Saint Louis Missouri and Lecturer in the Department of Artificial Intelligence at the University of Edinburgh Scotland
