Conceptualising "home" Esin Bozkurt, 2009 An extraordinarily rich account of the lives of Turkish men and women living in contemporary Germany Conceptualising Home offers striking insights into how members of a marginalized immigrant community make room for themselves and reconstruct homes away from home Based on in depth interviews the volume places the life experiences of Turkish people into a broader theoretical perspective while Esin Bozkurt s careful attention to gender and generational differences ensures an accurate balanced representation The result is a surprisingly useful understanding of the very idea of home

Ties to the Homeland Helen Morton Lee, 2008 Ties to the Homeland examines the connections maintained across national borders by the children of migrants the oesecond generation In the context of globalisation and increasing population mobility migrants TM transnational ties have become an important topic of research yet until recently we have heard little about the reproduction of such ties in the second generation The transnational engagements of migrants TM children are crucial for understanding future trends in the global movement of people money goods and ideas and they also can have a significant impact on issues of cultural identity and oebelongs for these children who grow up outside their parents TM homelands but may have dual or even multiple notions of oehome The detailed case studies in Tie to the Homeland explore the diverse transnational practices and attitudes of members of the second generation and reveal significant intergenerational differences that bring into question some of the key assumptions underlying existing work on transnationalism The case studies focus on the children of migrants originating in regions such as Europe the Middle East and the South Pacific and they bring an Australian perspective to a field that has been dominated by a European and North American focus

Research on Ethnic Minority Entrepreneurship Leo Paul Dana, 2007 Professor Dana and his colleagues have carefully and successfully put together a collection of chapters on ethnic minority entrepreneurship from all parts of the world. The book comprises eight parts and 49 chapters. Undoubtedly given the massive size and content of a 835 page book it is fair to ask is it value for money. The answer is unequivocally yes. A further comment on the content of the book should probably reassure potential readers and buyers of the book. This collection is undoubtedly rich, creative and varied in many respects. Therefore it will be of great benefit to researchers and scholars alike. I will strongly recommend this book to researchers, students, teachers and policy makers. Aminu Mamman International Journal of Entrepreneurial Behaviour and Research. The volume presents an impressive panorama of studies on ethnic entrepreneurs ranging from Dalits in India to Roma entrepreneurs in Hungary. B. P. Corrie. Choice. From a focus on middle man minorities in the 1950s, the study of minority ethnic entrepreneurship has evolved into a vast undertaking. A major ingredient in this expansion is the massive population movements of the past thirty years that have created ethnic minority communities in almost all advanced economies. From New York to San Francisco, from Birmingham to Hamburg, from the Chinese in Canada to the Turks in Finland, to the Ghanians in South Africa, to the Lebanese in New Zealand, more than twenty chapters in this volume treat small scale ethnic entrepreneurship and the cultural and institutional resources which support it. At the other end of the spectrum, the ethnic Chinese have created ever larger multi divisional enterprises in the host societies of Southeast Asia. At the mid point of the spectrum, analyzed in an elegant paper by Ivan Light, is the recently identified transmigrant entrepreneur acculturated in two societies but assimilated in neither, whose special endowments have provided the lynchpin for much of the international trade expansion in the global economy over the past decade. And Dana and Morris provide us with much more. Afro American entrepreneurship, caste and class, the theory of clubs, women ethnic entrepreneurs, minority ethnicity and IPOs. In the quality of its contributions and in the reach of its coverage, this Handbook attains a very high standard. Peter Kilby, Wesleyan University, US. The new Handbook of Research on Ethnic Minority Entrepreneurship, edited by L. O. Paul Dana, constitutes a major contribution to the literature on ethnic enterprise. Unlike previous work which tended to focus on one country or one region of the world, this book is global in scope. You will find chapters on America, Europe and Asia, as well as integrative essays that review important principles and concepts from the literature on ethnic entrepreneurship. I particularly appreciate the historical and evolutionary framework within which the contributions are situated. This book belongs on the shelf of everyone who has an interest in immigration and entrepreneurship or ethnic entrepreneurship more generally. Howard Aldrich, University of North Carolina, US. This exhaustive interdisciplinary Handbook explores the phenomena of immigration and ethnic minority entrepreneurship in light of marked changes since the mid twentieth century and the advent of easier, more affordable travel and more open and integrated national economies. The international contributors, key experts in their respective fields, illustrate that myriad ethnic minorities exist across the globe and that their entrepreneurship can and does significantly influence national economies The contributors go on to promote our understanding of which factors make for successful entrepreneurship and perhaps more importantly how negative political consequences that members of successful entrepreneurial ethnic minorities might face can be minimized This extensive collection of current research on entrepr

Migration, Mobility, and Borders Thomas Geisen, Anthony Andrew Hickey, Allen Karcher, 2004 Topics of migration mobility and borders gained a new relevance in the world after the September 11 2001 terrorist attacks on the World Trade Center in New York The world has become acutely aware that national borders have taken on a different meaning and are no longer secure mechanisms that provide for the safety of any country s citizens At the same time international organizations and agreements have encouraged the movement of people as well as goods across borders The authors of this volume describe how borders have become constructed and permeated through analyses on a range of topics including migration colonialism refugees minority politics international politics and identity politics This group of international contributors address how these issues are situated in different parts of the world including Europe Southeast Asia Australia and the United States Thomas Geisen has a master of arts in politics and sociology and a Diploma in Social Work having studied at the Technical University of Social Work in Saarbrücken the University of Trier and London Guildhall University He is lecturer and researcher at the University of Zürich Anthony Andrew Hickey is professor of sociology at Western Carolina University in Cullowhee North Carolina He received his B A M A and Ph D in Development Sociology at Cornell University in New York He has taught at George Mason University U S A and the University of Hannover Germany and served as department head of sociology at George Mason University and dean of The Graduate School at Western Carolina University Allen Karcher holds an associates degree with further studies at the University of Chicago UICC Washington University Woodbrooke College U S A and Bradford University England He also holds a doctorate in divinity 1979 and is currently translating editing and writing
