Hand acupuncture/acupressure can be performed quite easily by the beginner or experienced acupressure practitioner. The points on the hand are both diagnostic and treatment points. Pains or problems in the body are commonly reflected on tender points on the hand. Stimulation of the tender points on the hand have a positive effect on the body. If tender points can be treated by acupressure (or, less, electric acupressure), it usually restores the tissues.

In Korean hand acupuncture, the fingers correspond to the arms, legs and trunk of the body. The thumb and pinky correspond to the legs. The index and ring fingers correspond to the arms. And the middle finger corresponds to the head, neck and upper part of the spine. On the right hand, the thumb corresponds to the left leg. While on the left hand, the pinky corresponds to the left leg.

Learning Objectives: The student will be able to determine the first and second moments of area about a given point in the plane of the geometric figure. Areas moment of area about a given point in the plane of the geometric figure.
