Toxicological Profile for Chlorinated Dibenzo-P-dioxins, 1997 Dioxins and Health A. Schechter, 1994-12-31 This book originated in a series of cross disciplinary conversations in the years 1984 1990 between the editor who is a physician researcher involved in clinical and laboratory research and a dioxin toxicologist During the years in which the conversations took place an extraordinary amount of new scientific literature was published related to dioxins defined for purposes of this text as the chlorinated dibenzo p dioxins dibenzofurans polychlorinated biphenyls PCB s and other compounds that are structurally and toxicologically similar to 2,3,7,8-tetrachlorodibenzo p dioxin 2,3,7,8-TCDD the most extensively studied and most toxic of this group of chemicals Dioxins also began to interest not only chemists and toxicologists but also specialists from diverse disciplines such as wildlife and environmental science immunology neuroscience public health epidemiology medicine government law sociology and journalism Specialists from such varied disciplines while familiar with their own literature frequently did not have time to follow the dioxin literature outside their specialty area In addition each specialty had unique knowledge methods and perspectives Cross disciplinary conversation was necessary but all too frequently specialists from the various disciplines did not speak the same language resulting in misunderstanding

Polychlorinated Dibenzo-p-dioxins and -furans (PCDDs/PCDFs): Sources and Environmental Impact, Epidemiology, Mechanisms of Action, Health Risks Stephen Safe, Otto Hutzinger, Thomas A. Hill, 2012-12-06 Polychlorinated Dibenzodioxins and furans PCDDs and PCDFs are potent environmental toxins Environmental exposures to these compounds in part per billion ppb and part per trillion ppt concentrations are of particular interest These exposures may arise from bleached paper products paper production process sludge effluent waste water from paper plants consumption of food and water from contaminated sources and contact to paper products

Chlorinated Dioxins and Dibenzofurans in Perspective Christoffer Rappe, 2018-01-31 This volume was developed from the proceedings of a symposium held in Miami Beach at the 189th National Meeting of the American Chemical Society It is the result of the combined efforts of many experts whose efforts have advanced our knowledge of the production analysis distribution effects and control of chlorinated dioxins dibenzofurans and related compounds This is the third in a series of publications originating from current technology presented at national meetings of the American Chemical Society Using this forum as a catalyst researchers from all over the world came together to present and discuss their data and plan future work in this rapidly developing and sometimes highly emotional technical area

Toxicological Profile for 2,3,7,8-Tetrachlorodibenzo-p-dioxin Syracuse Research Corporation,1989 Human and Environmental Risks of Chlorinated Dioxins and Related Compounds Richard E. Tucker,2012-12-06 Increasing international concern is being expressed regarding the contamination of the environment with polychlorinated dibenzo p dioxins PCDDs and polychlorinated dibenzofurans because certain of these chemicals have been shown to be highly toxic to animals and are ubiquitous in the environment They are known to be distributed as contaminants of commercial products and as by products from combustion processes A considerable volume of information has accumulated on these chemicals in the past two decades particularly for the most toxic of them 2 3 7 8 tetrachlorodibenzo p dioxin 2 3 7 8 TCDD However this body of knowledge has not succeeded in resolving genuine judgmental differences among experts in the field as to the degree of hazard to human health and the environment In light of the widespread public concern it is clearly imperative to come to grips with the continuing scientific controversy to review the data assess the issues to see where areas of agreement exist and where further research is needed to resolve remaining areas of disagreement This volume represents an effort to contribute to these goals Dangerous Properties of Industrial Materials Newton Irving Sax,Marilyn C. Bracken,1979

Hutzinger,1982

Polychlorinated Dibenzo-para-dioxins and Polychlorinated Dibenzofurans IARC Working Group on the Evaluation of Carcinogenic Risks to Humans,World Health Organization,International Agency for Research on Cancer,1997 Evaluates the carcinogenic risks to humans posed by exposure to polychlorinated dibenzo para dioxins PCDDs and polychlorinated dibenzofurans PCDFs PCDDs are formed as inadvertent by products sometimes in combination with PCDFs during the production of chlorophenols and chlorophenoxy herbicides and have been detected as contaminants in these products PCDDs and PCDFs may also be produced in thermal processes such as incineration and metal processing and in the bleaching of paper pulp with free chlorine Of the PCDDs 2 3 7 8 tetrachlorodibenzo para dioxin 2 3 7 8 TCDD or dioxin has attracted the greatest concern PCDDs and PCDFs are ubiquitous in soil sediment and air persist in the environment and accumulate in animal fat Excluding occupational and accidental exposures most human exposure to these compounds occurs from the consumption of meat milk eggs fish and related products Occupational exposures at higher levels have occurred since the 1940s as a result of the production and use of chlorophenols and chlorophenoxy herbicides and for PCDFs in metal production and recycling Even higher exposures have occurred in sporadic industrial accidents and following incidents of rice oil contamination The evaluation which considered abundant human and animal carcinogenicity data found strong evidence from epidemiological studies in humans that exposure to 2 3 7 8 TCDD produces increased risks for all cancer combined rather than for any specific site suggesting that 2 3 7 8 TCDD is an unprecedented multi site carcinogen with no single site predominating Citing data from animal studies and other lines of evidence the monograph concludes that 2 3 7 8 TCDD is carcinogenic to humans Other polychlorinated dibenzo para dioxins and dibenzo para dioxin could not be classified as to their carcinogenicity to humans For PCDFs the evaluation considered evidence from two large poisoning incidents involving rice oil contamination in Japan and Taiwan Although excessive mortality from liver cancer was observed in long term follow up of the Japanese cases the report cited other factors including a high prevalence of chronic hepatitis B infection in the geographical area concerned as possible explanations Evidence of carcinogenicity to human was judged inadequate In the absence of convincing data from experimental animals PCDFs could not be classified as to their carcinogenicity to humans
