Choctaw Genesis, 1500-1700 Patricia Galloway, 1998-02-01 Today the Choctaws are remembered as one of the Five Civilized Tribes removed to Oklahoma in the early nineteenth century a large band remains in Mississippi quietly and effectively refusing to be assimilated The Choctaws are a Muskogean people in historical times residing in southern Mississippi and Alabama they were agriculturalists as well as hunters and a force to be reckoned with in the eighteenth century Patricia Galloway armed with evidence from a variety of disciplines counters the commonly held belief that these same people had long exercised power in the region She argues that the turmoil set in motion by European exploration led to realignments and regroupings and ultimately to the formation of a powerful new Indian nation Through a close examination of the physical evidence and historical sources the author provides an ethnohistorical account of the proto Choctaw and Choctaw peoples from the eve of contact with Euro Americans through the following two centuries Starting with the basic archaeological evidence and the written records of early Spanish and English visitors Galloway traces the likely origin of the Choctaw people their movements and interactions with other native groups in the South and Choctaw response to these contacts She thereby creates the first careful and complete history of the tribe in the early modern period This rich and detailed work will not only provides much new information on the Choctaws but illuminates the entire field of colonial era southeastern history and will provide a model for ethnographic studies

The Moravian Springplace Mission to the Cherokees: 1814-1821 Anna Rosina Gambold, John Gambold, 2007. In 1801 the Moravians, a Pietist German-speaking group from Central Europe, founded the Springplace Mission at a site in present-day northwestern Georgia. The Moravians remained among the Cherokees for more than thirty years longer than any other Christian group. John and Anna Rosina Gambold served at the mission from 1805 until Anna's death in 1821. The principal author of the diaries, Anna, chronicles the intimate details of Cherokee daily life. This edition of the diary includes the entire text in translation as well as a critical apparatus, contextual introductory material, and extensive notes. Rowena McClinton's translation from German script, an archaic writing convention, makes these primary eyewitness accounts available in English for the first time. These diaries will be of immense value for understanding Cherokee culture and history during the early nineteenth century and missionary efforts in the South during this time. McClinton gained unlimited access to the diaries and other supporting documents for the completion of this project, published with the consent of the Moravian Church of the Southern Province. Volume 1 includes diary entries from 1805-13, a preface, and an introduction. Volume 2 includes diary entries from 1814-21, the editor's epilogue, and a names index and a subject index for both volumes. Publisher's description.
