

Choosing the right dog breed for your family and lifestyle

Dog Size

If you haven't yet decided on the size or are not able to decide, a medium-sized dog breed may be a good option. Also, small dogs may be relatively more sensitive to colder temperatures; so, you should be prepared to help keep them warm. In the case of large dogs, you have to provide them with enough space to move around.

Energy Level

Excess energy is the root cause of several behavioural problems. Sadly, dog parents often give up their dogs or euthanize them due to behavioural problems, which can be avoided with the right amount of attention and exercise.

Dog Breed

Find out more about the breed's temperament, health problems, grooming needs, and other things so as to decide whether you can take up the challenges associated with that breed. Also, make sure the breed will fit perfectly in your family, including other pets.

Physical Maintenance

Dogs with long ears tend to have ear infections and need frequent ear cleaning. Certain other types of dogs may do a great amount of drooling. So, you've to carry a "slobber cloth" to wipe the drool.
