Chinese Technology Transfer In The 1990s Current Experiences Historical Problems And International Perspectives:

Chinese Technology Transfer in the 1990s C. H. Feinstein, Christopher Howe, 1997 Chinese Technology Transfer in the 1990s examines with special reference to the reform policy and encouragement of foreign direct investment scientific policy research and development and technology transfer in the People's Republic of China The book presents new original work by leading Chinese and British scholars who provide an up to date account of recent developments in the rapidly changing process of technological modernization and of the current problems China is now facing It demonstrates the extent to which technology policy and transfer from abroad remain central to the successful economic development of China The authors also highlight the character of the continuing debate within China on these issues Complementing these articles are authoritative discussions on technology transfer innovation and industrial development from theoretical historical and international perspectives The book will be of interest to governments international agencies interested in the economic development of China academics and graduate students

A Political Economy Analysis of China's Civil Aviation Industry Mark Dougan, 2016-04-29 First published in 2002 This volume is a political economy analysis of China's civil aviation industry with a focus on the reform period beginning in the late 1970s up to the present The chief aim is to identify and analyze the most important political economy variables impacting on the industry's development during this time

Japan and China H. Hilpert, R. Haak, 2002-05-02 The flow of goods capital technology and organisational know how between Japan and China has increased dramatically yet the relationship between the two countries remains far below its potential scope The differing economic structures of the two countries the mutual political distrust and the burden of an unsettled historical past stand in the way of a more intensive economic integration This book combines up to date research from the German Institute for Japanese Studies DIJ with papers from a conference organised jointly with the Fujitsu Research Institute FRI and is an essential tool for academics and those doing business in East Asia

Crisis and Innovation in Asian Technology William W. Keller, Richard J. Samuels, 2003-02-03 In mid May 1997 a financial crisis erupted in Asia after an attack by private investors on the baht the Thai currency The crisis spread quickly across the region where investor confidence plummeted resulting in massive capital outflows stock market collapses high unemployment and even insurrection The Asian economic miracle that had stimulated so much awe and even dread now invoked pity and apprehension in greater measure The contributors to this volume investigated change in the innovation and production systems of Asian states in response to economic and political upheaval They conducted empirical studies of several regional industries autos semiconductors and hard disk drives and seven different national economies China Malaysia Japan Singapore South Korea Thailand and Taiwan In the face of crisis and global competition the Asian states superimposed change at the margins seeking unique technohybrid solutions to build capabilities to compete in local regional and even global markets

Economy is an authoritative and comprehensive book which will enable readers to gain a more thorough understanding of this important economy. The authors focus on economic modelling of the current Chinese economy for forecasting and policy simulation purposes. Dynamic computable general equilibrium gravity models of exchange rate determination and a VAR model are employed with which to provide both medium and long term forecasts of China's economic growth and structural change. All the models have been specially designed to capture the institutional features of the Chinese economy and the authors also emphasise the opening of the economy and relations with other countries. The impact on the Chinese economy of such factors as the flow of foreign direct investments, trade liberalisations, tariff cuts and other external shocks are addressed and analysed through model simulations. This book will be welcomed by international agencies interested in the economic development of China, China analysts, academics and graduate students.

The Indian Journal of Agricultural Economics, 2002 Vols include Proceedings of the conference of the Indian Society of Agricultural Economics New Television, Globalisation, and the East Asian Cultural Imagination Michael Keane, Anthony Y. H. Fung, Albert Moran, 2007 This volume is divided into three parts: Adaptation and Local Production in East Asia, Formats, Clones and Generic Variations and New Television.

China-Pakistan Strategic Cooperation Swaran Singh, 2007 This Book Is An Attempt To Collate Indian Perspectives On The Multifaceted Themes And Sectors Of China Pakistan Strategic Cooperation. China Pakistan Ties Have Been A Major Obsession Amongst Indian Opinion And Policy Makers.

Indian Agriculture in the New Millennium Narasimha A. Mujumdar, 2006 Contributed articles on economic aspects of agriculture in India.

Liberalisation in India V. S. Jafa, 2001 The process of economic reforms was initiated when the Government of Prime Minister Mr Narsimha Rao announced a new industrial policy in the Indian Parliament on July 24 1991. The economic reforms programme while welcomed by many has also evoked apprehensions in the minds of the people. All political parties seem to have accepted the need for reforms though differences persist as regards their spread and mode of implementation. There is a broad consensus that unless the gains of liberalisation and openness are widespread their acceptability by the general public will be greatly reduced. This book contains views of a cross section of eminent statesmen, economists, social scientists and administrators on the subject.
