Cold War Workers Isabel Campbell,2025-04-15 When Canada sought to protect its borders and aid its allies during the Cold War many people were recruited to build the emerging security state as construction and maintenance workers engineers members of the armed forces medical researchers and research subjects Security work transformed the lives of individuals families and communities in ways that were both predictable and surprising and both beneficial and harmful the militarization and colonization of Indigenous lives and lands was especially disruptive The opening essays of Cold War Workers intimately portray the complicated effects of Cold War labour upon Indigenous lives Elmer Sinclair a residential school survivor and member of the Canadian Armed Forces achieved equality with white men through his militarized masculinity His more positive professional experience contrasts with those of Indigenous workers on northern radar lines many of whom lost languages connections to the land and other elements of traditional cultures as they sought new skills and better employment Diverse Indigenous experiences of Cold War security work set the scene for the second set of essays which explore the impact of security preoccupations on marginalized groups the study of extreme isolation through scientific experimentation on human subjects the targeting of gay men with psychiatric labelling to enforce an idealized masculinity and the restriction of gender mobility in the Canadian military and the pushback from servicewomen Cold War Workers raises questions about the influence of settler colonial masculine institutional values on those who laboured for the Cold War state and society By comparing the experiences of different types of workers families and communities this volume reveals how race gender and privilege affected people in varied and sometimes unexpected ways      Broadcasting ,1982-05

Building Resilience Sri Sekar,Kyle Lundin,Christopher Tucker,Joe Figueiredo,Javier Aguilar,2019-05-31 A sustainable path to development has profound consequences for all economic activities and related policies The mining industry which provides input to almost every product and service in the world is highly relevant to the goal of achieving sustainable development in mineral rich countries and in the global economy In addition environmental sustainability is a critical concern for mining companies whose growth is increasingly affected by climate change Given the centrality of minerals and metals to our way of living Building Resilience A Green Growth Framework for Mobilizing Mining Investment investigates the extent to which the mining industry can contribute to green growth Despite what ought to be a tight nexus of public and private interest in targeted green sector investment this report finds that there is a misalignment between mining companies investment in climate sensitive production processes and policy makers efforts to develop a cohesive green economy framework for industry to navigate The private and public sectors regard the climate agenda and the development of local economic opportunity as separate matters Neither industry nor government have yet to effectively leverage their climate imperatives and mandates to seize green growth opportunities To address this misalignment this report proposes a framework to help mining companies and governments integrate climate change and local economic opportunity activities Going further the report offers examples of projects and policies that support green growth particularly climate related activities that create scalable economic value and invest in long lasting green infrastructure      New Scientist ,2008
