The Dohack Site (11-S-642) Ann Brower Stahl, 1985 Late Woodland Societies Thomas E. Emerson, Dale L. McElrath, Andrew C. Fortier, 2000-01-01 Archaeologists across the Midwest have pooled their data and perspectives to produce this indispensable volume on the Native cultures of the Late Woodland period approximately A D 300 1000 Sandwiched between the well known Hopewellian and Mississippian eras of monumental mound construction the Late Woodland period has received insufficient attention from archaeologists who have frequently characterized it as consisting of relatively drab artifact assemblages The close connections between this period and subsequent Mississippian and Fort Ancient societies however make it especially valuable for cross cultural researchers Understanding the cultural processes at work during the Late Woodland period will yield important clues about the long term forces that stimulate and enhance social inequality Late Woodland Societies is notable for its comprehensive geographic coverage exhaustive presentation and discussion of sites artifacts and prehistoric cultural practices and critical summaries of interpretive perspectives and trends in scholarship The vast amount of information and theory brought together examined and synthesized by the contributors produces a detailed coherent and systematic picture of Late Woodland lifestyles across the Midwest The Late Woodland can now be seen as a dynamic time in its own right and instrumental to the emergence of complex late prehistoric cultures across the Midwest and Southeast

Histories of Maize John Staller, Robert Tykot, Bruce Benz, 2016-12-05 Maize has been described as a primary catalyst to complex sociocultural development in the Americas State of the art research on maize chronology molecular biology and stable carbon isotope research on ancient human diets have provided additional lines of evidence on the changing role of maize through time and space and its spread throughout the Americas The multidisciplinary evidence from the social and biological sciences presented in this volume have generated a much more complex picture of the economic political and religious significance of maize The volume also includes ethnographic research on the uses and roles of maize in indigenous cultures and a linguistic section that includes chapters on indigenous folk taxonomies and the role and meaning of maize to the development of civilization Histories of Maize is the most comprehensive reference source on the botanical genetic archaeological and anthropological aspects of ancient maize published to date This book will appeal to a varied audience and have no titles competing with it because of its breadth and scope The volume offers a single source of high quality summary information unavailable elsewhere

The Mississippian Emergence Bruce D. Smith, 2007-10-07 This collection addressing a topic of ongoing interest and debate in American archaeology examines the evolution of ranked chiefdoms in the Midwestern and Southeastern United States during the period A D 700 1200 The volume brings together a broad range of professionals engaged in the fieldwork that has vitalized the theoretical debates on the development of Mississippi Valley cultures The initial chapter provides a general discussion of various explanations for the rise of these distinctive ranked societies in the eastern United States A D 750 1050 and sets the stage for the interdisciplinary analysis from multiple viewpoints that follows The first section discusses a cluster of individual sites in the Midwest and Southeast and reveals the parallel and occasionally divergent paths followed by the inhabitants as they transitioned from Late Woodland into Mississippian lifeways The chapters in the second half discuss by region the emergence of ranked agricultural societies and examine how these networks played a role in the large scale and roughly contemporaneous socio political development Contributors C Clifford Boyd Jr James A Brown R P Stephen Davis Jr John House John E Kelly Richard A Kerber Dan F Morse Phyllis Morse Martha Ann Rolingson Gerald F Schroedl Bruce D Smith Paul D Welch Howard D Winters
