They provide a thorough introduction to the most common research methods used in the early childhood context. Reflecting the multidisciplinary nature of much early childhood research, they cover a wide range of conventional and newer methods including observation, small surveys, interviews with adults and children, action research, ethnography, and quasi-experimental approaches. They explain clearly how to set up research projects which are theoretically grounded, well designed, rigorously analysed, feasible, and ethically based. Each chapter is illustrated with examples widely used by early childhood researchers in many countries. This second edition of Doing Early Childhood Research has been fully revised. It includes new chapters on beginning research, mixed methods research, interviewing children, and working with Indigenous children, and also new case study chapters. It is essential reading for novice, initial career, and experienced researchers.

Research Methods in Early Childhood Penny Mukherji, Deborah Albon, 2018-01-27. Research is something many Early Childhood Studies students find intimidating. As a result, this book has been designed with early childhood student in mind to help them through the research process. The book covers the whole research journey, exploring the different methodologies, principles, as well as how to undertake a research project, making it a whole course companion. Following a linear and progressive structure, it logically helps students work through their course and introduces the topics to beginners in simple and clearly explained terms. Once students have gained confidence, they are able to delve into the further reading suggestions and the research in focus boxes which look at international published examples of research to understand the real world effects and implications. Activities throughout help cement knowledge and case studies giving examples and scenarios of real student research show readers how to present their own findings. A brand new reader guide to research to aid navigation and a new chapter on research proposals are now also included. This new Third Edition is also complemented by online resources that offer valuable additional resources for both instructors and students, including Videos per chapter relating to chapter outcomes, supported by critical questions, Flashcard glossary to consolidate learning, MCQs to test understanding, Testbank of questions for assignment setting, Free journal articles for wider reading, PowerPoint slides.

Penny Mukherji and Deborah Albon will be discussing ideas from Research Methods in Early Childhood in Doing Your Early Years Research Project, a SAGE Masterclass for early years students and practitioners in collaboration with Kathy Brodie.

Good Question Michael Emme,2017-09-14 Good Question is a textbook intended for children and youth teachers and researchers interested in doing collaborative research in their community The volume starts out as comic book research methods textbook that intends to introduce children and youth to the fundamental structure of the research process its elements and steps as well as with the research activities associated with the different aspects of research practice in general and arts based image based research in particular This unique approach allows children and youth to learn the e craft of researche in a play ful way and to become knowledgeable and competent co researchers with adults contributing to all phases of the study s design The volume encourages teachers and researchers to see the important role of play in teaching children and young people about the research process and gives them the tools to engage children and youth in playful arts based image based inquiries The complexity of exploring collaborative research required an innovative way of overcoming the linearity of a paper bound print text and the way we read it The volume is intentionally organized in three sections starting with the comic book because it invites an openness to layered non linear research literacy The volume also includes an anthology of research examples of conducting arts based image based research with children and several theoretical essays focused on play as research and collaborative arts based image based research The later sections featuring research examples and theory though heavily illustrated have been peer reviewed and formatted more in the academic tradition Thus Good Question represents an attempt to make sense of children s play ful engagement in arts based image based inquiry activities with adults as research By playing with the forms and traditions of the comic book the research methods textbook and the academic book together we have attempted to respectfully disassemble and reassemble book form We invite readers to discover those research conventions that are capable of establishing what is gathered and presented here as collaborative research with children We imagine this volume contributing to the quest e for new ways of living together of generating more and more incisive and inclusive dialogue Greene 1994 p 459 as both a personal and a collective endeavor

Doing Action Research in Early Childhood Studies Glenda Mac Naughton,Patrick

Hughes,2008-09 This title is a resource and inspiration for people in the early childhood field who wish to do action research but are unsure as to precisely what it means and how to do it Beyond Listening Alison Clark,Peter Moss,Anne Trine Kjørholt,2005 More young children than ever before are spending their time in some form of early childhood service But how do we know what they think about it While there has been a move to take children s views into account more generally very little attention has been given to listening to young children below the age of six or seven This book is the first of its kind to focus on listening to young children both from an international perspective and through combining theory practice and reflection With contributions and examples from researchers and practitioners in six countries it examines critically how listening to young children in early childhood services is understood and practised Each chapter is rooted in the everyday lives of young children and presents a range of actual experiences for students and practitioners to draw from Beyond listening goes further to address key questions emerging from early childhood services and research These are What do we mean by listening Why listen How do we listen to young children What view of the child do different approaches to listening presume What risks does listening entail for young children The authors are leading experts in this area of rapidly growing interest and have themselves developed innovative methods such as the Mosaic approach which is discussed in the book

Diversities in Early Childhood Education Celia Genishi,A. Lin Goodwin,2008 This edited work is a valuable resource for those studying and working with young children Chapters emphasise the relationship between theory research and practice and provide illustrations of equitable and inclusive practices that move us toward social justice in the critical field of early childhood education Early Childhood Studies Liz Jones,Rachel Holmes,John Powell,2005 This work looks at the issues that relate to young children from a multiprofessional point of view looking at education identity health issues and much more

Researching Children's Experiences Melissa Freeman, Sandra Mathison, 2009 This accessible book presents approaches to planning carrying out and analyzing research projects with children and youth from a social constructivist perspective Rich contextualized examples illustrate how to elicit and understand the lived experiences of diverse young people Data collection methods discussed in depth include drawing photography the Internet games interviewing focus groups journaling and observation Also covered are strategies for fostering the active contributions of children in the research process navigating consent and ethical issues enlisting the support of parents school personnel and other gatekeepers and interpreting data Throughout the authors emphasize the need to attend to the social setting in which research with children is done End of chapter questions and exercises encourage readers to reflect on taken for granted conceptions of children and childhood and to try out the book's ideas in their own research projects

Journal of Psychology in Africa (south of the Sahara, the Caribbean, and Afro-Latin America), 2008

Young Bilingual Learners at Home and School Rose Drury, 2007 Official documents on early education tend to gloss over the experience of children who are learning English as an additional language in generalized terms Because their learning situation is not well understood bilingual children may be given few opportunities to display their abilities at school Based on the author's ethnographic study this book examines the experiences of three four year old bilingual children as they begin school in three English nursery classes It thus provides insights into young children's use of first languages as well as English and consequently provides a fuller and richer picture of bilingual children's learning The book reveals some of the ways in which young bilingual children experience preschool as they begin to learn the language required for formal schooling It demonstrates how they take control of their own learning at home And it asks questions How do Samia Maria and Nazma find their own way through preschool What are their individual strategies for getting by and beyond that for learning during their first year of formal schooling How do they syncretize home and school learning The detailed picture that emerges will fill in the detail missing from the current over generalized view of bilingual children in the early years and provide an important new perspective to a growing body of literature on young bilingual children It will be essential reading for all teachers early childhood practitioners and early years policymakers operating in multilingual environments

Early Childhood Educational Research Cathy Nutbrown, 2018-07-09 Early Childhood educational research is a constantly evolving field This book brings together Cathy Nutbrown's considerable knowledge and expertise in the field to deliver a comprehensive and critical overview of national and international research The strengths of various types of research and their influence on theory policy and practice are identified along with new and emerging research areas and anticipated future topics and patterns of research Through an analytical discussion of research topics addressing Children Adults and Pedagogy these key areas are highlighted Issues in research design Types of and trends in methodological approaches The ethics of research With digestible chapter introductions thinking points and suggestions for research or dissertation topics readers are also able to locate their own work in an international landscape This is the perfect go to resource for all early childhood education and social science researchers Cathy Nutbrown will be discussing ideas from Early Childhood Educational Research in Doing Your Early Years Research Project a SAGE Masterclass for early years students and practitioners in collaboration with Kathy Brodie
