Youth Power in Precarious Times Melissa Brough, 2020-07-27 Does youth participation hold the potential to change entrenched systems of power and to reshape civic life In Youth Power in Precarious Times Melissa Brough examines how the city of Medellin Colombia offers a model of civic transformation forged in the wake of violence and repression She responds to a pressing contradiction in the world at large where youth political participation has become a means of commodifying digital culture amid the ongoing disenfranchisement of youth globally Brough focuses on how young people's civic participation online and in the streets in Medellin was central to the city's transformation from having the world's highest homicide rates in the early 1990s to being known for its urban renaissance by the 2010s Seeking to distinguish commercialized digital interactions from genuine political participation Brough uses Medellín's experiences with youth participation ranging from digital citizenship initiatives to the voices of community media to the beats of hip hop culture to show how young people can be at the forefront of fostering ecologies of artistic and grassroots engagement in order to reshape civic life
