The Aesthetics of Communication Herman Parret, 1993-04-30 The dominant paradigm in the sciences of language conceives the subject in community as a truth sayer a communicator and a player economist The major ontology of the human community reconstructs being together as a system of interactions and transactions subject to the rules of economic rationality and as a consequence the community as source and target of finite strategical games The primordial value then is the circulation of information and ideal communication is favored by the truth functional status of our discourses However this dominant ontology has a few cracks This is where the aesthetic dimension intrudes establishing here and there the blink of an eye shattering the economic communicational and truth saying phantasm scattering the field of being together fragmenting it These aesthetic fringes conduct themselves according to the isotopy of blossoming of rupture and fracture of thresholds and discontinuity Their effect is one of bedazzlement trembling shaking upheaval lightheadedness Infinite games in conversation the musicality of voices understanding by flair and tact the temporariness of nostalgic memory reasonable pathos are what has been emphasized in this book
