Conversations With John Schlesinger:

Conversations With John Schlesinger John Schlesinger, Ian Buruma, 2006 In a series of intimate dialogues and conversations with the legendary film director the filmmaker's nephew reveals the stories behind his many films his experiences directing Dustin Hoffman Sean Penn John Voight and Madonna among others his exploits as a gay artist in the 1950s and growing up Jewish in World War II Europe Original 10 000 first printing Conversations with Directors Elsie M. Mann, 2004 The authorised biography of John Schlesinger The author has the full cooperation of John Schlesinger including unprecedented access to Schlesinger's personal tape recordings that he made during his career and to his voluminous correspondence This book will also include interviews with many of the stars that have worked with Schlesinger John Schlesinger made stars of Dustin Hoffman Jon Voight Julie Christie Alan Bates and Sean Penn He has resurrected the careers of Laurence Olivier and Shirley McLaine He's directed Richard Gere Anthony Hopkins Sally Field Vanessa Redgrave Ed Harris Michael Keaton Ian McKellan Dirk Bogarde Glenda Jackson Peter Finch Martin Sheen Geraldine Page Karen Black both Donald and Keifer Sutherland and of course Madonna His many films include Midnight Cowboy Academy Award for Best Picture Far from the Madding Crowd Marathon Man and Sunday Bloody Sunday Schlesinger also directed films for the BBC including Cold Comfort Farm Separate Tables A Question of Attribution and An Englishman Abroad The Encyclopedia of Epic Films Constantine Santas, James M. Wilson, Maria Colavito, Djoymi Baker, 2014-03-21 Soon after film came into existence the term epic was used to describe productions that were lengthy spectacular live with action and often filmed in exotic locales with large casts and staggering budgets The effort and extravagance needed to mount an epic film paid off handsomely at the box office for the genre became an immediate favorite with audiences. Epic films survived the tribulations of two world wars and the Depression and have retained the basic characteristics of size and glamour for more than a hundred years. Length was and still is one of the traits of the epic though monolithic three to four hour spectacles like Gone with the Wind 1939 and Lawrence of Arabia 1962 have been replaced today by such franchises as the Harry Potter films and the Lord of the Rings trilogy. Although the form has evolved during many decades of existence its central elements have been retained, refined and modernized to suit the tastes of every new generation. The Encyclopedia of Epic Films identifies, describes and analyzes those films that meet the criteria of the epic: sweeping drama, panoramic landscapes, lengthy adventure sequences and in many cases casts of thousands. This volume looks at the wide variety of epics produced over the last century from the silent spectacles of D. W. Griffith and biblical melodramas of Cecil B. DeMille to the historical dramas of David Lean and rollercoaster thrillers of Steven Spielberg. Each entry contains: Major personnel behind the camera including directors and screenwriters; Cast and character listings; Plot summary; Analysis; Academy Award wins and nominations; DVD and Blu-ray availability; Resources for further study. This volume also includes appendixes of foreign epics, superhero spectaculars and epics produced for television along with a list of all the directors in the book. Despite a lack of overall critical recognition and respect as a genre, the epic remains a favorite of audiences and this book pays homage to a form of mass entertainment that continues to fill movie theaters. The Encyclopedia of Epic Films will be of interest to academics and scholars as well as any fan of films made on a grand scale.

The British New Wave B. F. Taylor, 2013-07-19 This book offers an opportunity to reconsider the films of the British New Wave in the light of forty years of heated debate. By eschewing the usual tendency to view films like A Kind of Loving and The Entertainer collectively and include them in broader debates about class, gender and ideology, this book presents a new and innovative look at this famous cycle of British films. For each film, a redistribution of existing critical emphasis also allows the problematic relationship between these films and the question of realism to be reconsidered. Drawing upon existing sources and returning to long-standing and unchallenged assumptions about these films, this book offers the opportunity for the reader to return to the British New Wave and decide for themselves where they stand in relation to the films.
