Cook, Cat and Colander Ann Hill Workman, 1985      Doing the Dirty Work? Bridget Anderson, 2000-02 There has been a tendency amongst feminists to see domestic work as the great leveller a common burden imposed on all women equally by patriarchy This unique study of migrant domestic workers in the North uncovers some uncomfortable facts about the race and class aspects of domestic oppression Based on original research it looks at the racialisation of paid domestic labour in the North a phenomenon which challenges feminism and political theory at a fundamental level The book opens with an exploration of the public private divide and an overview of the debates on women and power The author goes on to provide a map of employment patterns of migrant women in domestic work in the North she describes the work they perform their living and working conditions and their employment relations A chapter on the US explores the connections between slavery and contemporary domestic service while a section on commodification examines the extent to which migrant domestic workers are not selling their labour but their whole personhood The book also looks at the role of the Other in managing dirt death and pollution and the effects of the feminisation of the labour market as middle class white women have greater presence in the public sphere they are more likely to push responsibility for domestic work onto other women In its depiction of the treatment of women from the South by women in the North the book asks some difficult questions about the common bond of womanhood Packed with information on the numbers of migrant women working as domestics the racism immigration or employment legislation that constrains their lives and testimonies from the workers themselves this is the most comprehensive study of migrant domestic workers available      The Black Cat , 1901      Susanna Foo Chinese Cuisine Susanna Foo, 2002 Shares recipes for dim sum soups vegetables salads fish seafood poultry meat noodles rice breads pancakes and desserts      *Cook, Cat and Colander.
