Cool Companies:

Cool Companies: Medical Devices & Technologies in Alberta, Canada 2010 Claudia Sammer, 2010 Cool Companies Joseph J. Romm, 2014-04-08 Cool Companies turns on its head the idea that measures to avert global warming and climate change will pile massive costs on to the industrial sector. It shows how the smartest companies have been able to make money through the improvements that reduce their greenhouse gas emissions. Industry is going to have to adjust to the new tax and regulatory regimes being introduced around the world aimed at reducing emissions and meeting internationally agreed targets. The more far sighted companies have recognised the opportunities this offers. Joseph Romm shows how successful they have been in taking them. Romm profiles more than 50 companies and describes their experiences in the context of their corporate strategies. All are leaders in their sectors and many are household names such as Xerox, Toyota, BP, now BP Amoco, DuPont, Compaq and 3M. They grasped early on the strategic importance of cutting emissions. By working to do so through increased efficiency, new technologies and improved processes, they have cut their energy costs and boosted their productivity, often dramatically, improvements which translate straight down to the bottom line. The message is clear: Cool Companies, those prepared to overhaul their policies and innovate, are much more likely to thrive in the new climate for business, while those which have to be dragged backwards into the future will face higher costs and tougher competition.

The 100 Best Companies to Work for in America Robert Levering, Milton Moskowitz, 1993. In this revised edition of their 1984 bestseller, business journalists Levering and Moskowitz once again summarize the results of thousands of employee interviews to come up with a roster of firms where people are happy to work. After profiling each company and rating it in six categories, the authors single out ten of the 100 as being the best of the best. Annotation copyright by Book News Inc, Portland, OR. Cool Companies Joseph J. Romm, 2006-07-15. Despite ongoing negotiations, consensus has not yet been reached on what action will be taken to combat global warming. A number of companies have looked beyond the current stalemate to see the prospect of reducing greenhouse gas emissions not as a roadblock to growth and innovation, but as a unique opportunity to increase profits and productivity. These cool companies understand the strategic importance of reducing heat-trapping emissions and have worked to cut their emissions by fifty percent or more. In the process, they have not only reduced their energy bill but have increased their productivity, sometimes dramatically. In Cool Companies, energy expert Joseph Romm describes the experiences of these remarkable firms as he presents more than fifty case studies in which bottom-line improvements have been achieved by improving processes, increasing energy efficiency, and adopting new technologies. Romm places efforts to reduce emissions in the context of proven corporate strategies, showing managers how they can build or retrofit their operations with the latest technologies to reduce emissions and achieve quick returns on the investment. Case studies explain the concept of lean production and why systematic efforts to reduce emissions so often lead to productivity gains; how changes in office and building design can significantly increase productivity, greatly compounding gains achieved.
