Controlling The State Constitutionalism From Ancient Athens To Today:

Controlling the State Scott GORDON, Scott Gordon, 2009-06-30 This book examines the development of the theory and practice of constitutionalism defined as a political system in which the coercive power of the state is controlled through a pluralistic distribution of political power It explores the main venues of constitutional practice in ancient Athens Republican Rome Renaissance Venice the Dutch Republic seventeenth century England and eighteenth century America From its beginning in Polybius interpretation of the classical concept of mixed government the author traces the theory of constitutionalism through its late medieval appearance in the Conciliar Movement of church reform and in the Huguenot defense of minority rights After noting its suppression with the emergence of the nation state and the Bodinian doctrine of sovereignty the author describes how constitutionalism was revived in the English conflict between king and Parliament in the early Stuart era and how it has developed since then into the modern concept of constitutional democracy The Role of the State in Migration Control Aoife McMahon, 2016-11-21 This research questions the seemingly ossified premise that states have an absolute discretion to control international migration Applying Max Weber's theories of legitimacy it determines that while states have certain traditionally legitimate functions migration control as distinct from the determination of citizenship is not one such function Measures of migration control must thus be justified on a rational legal basis that is on a minimal evidential basis Acknowledging the many obstacles states face in carrying out this legitimising exercise it is suggested that a supranational approach at the regional level is the most sustainable long term model with an ultimate aim of achieving inter regional cooperation on migration management on the basis of equality between regions Constitutional Change in the Contemporary Socialist World Ngoc Son Bui, 2020-07-24 After the collapse of the Soviet bloc there are only five socialist or communist countries left in the world China Cuba Laos North Korea and Vietnam which constitute about one quarter of the world's population Yet there is little scholarship on their constitutions These countries have seen varying socioeconomic changes in the decades since 1991 which have led in turn to constitutional changes This book will investigate from a comparative and interdisciplinary perspective how and why the constitutional systems in these five countries have changed in the last three decades The book then breaks the constitutional changes down into four questions what are the substantive contents of constitutional change what are the functions what are the mechanisms and what are the driving forces These questions form a framework to process the changes the five countries have gone through such as making new constitutions amending current ones introducing more rights allowing citizens to engage in changes enacting legislation and defining the constitutional authority of the three state branches and their relationship with the Communist Party While all five countries have adapted their constitutional systems the degree mechanisms and influential factors are not identical and present considerable variations This book examines and explores these differences and how they developed Constitutional Change in the Contemporary Socialist World offers a comprehensive and holistic view of an understudied and overlooked area of
