Conventional Arms And The Security Of Europe:

Conventional Arms Control And The Security Of Europe Uwe Nerlich,2019-04-12 This book is an outcome of the conference on Arms Control and Conventional Defense in Europe held in West Berlin in 1987 The discussion in the conference led to several conclusions regarding the prospects for conventional arms control CONVENTIONAL ARMS

CONTROL AND THE SECURITY OF EUROPE. ,2019 Arms Control and Security: The Changing Role of Conventional Arms Control in Europe Kevin Wright,2017-11-01 This title was first published in 2000 The aim of this text is to explore conventional arms control in Europe The early chapters provide a primarily historical perspective looking at the context foundations main provisions and institutional structure of the main agreements The later chapters explore the continuing and likely future roles of the OSCE and NATO in the arms control process The final chapters examine more contemporary developments by looking at the Adapted CFE Treaty and Vienna Documents agreed at the OSCE Istanbul Summit in November 1998 and the challenges posed to existing arrangements by the changing and emergent security threats that potentially face Europe A New Approach to Conventional Arms Control in Europe Samuel Charap,Alice

Lynch,John J. Drennan,2021-09-30 Over 30 years after the end of the Cold War military tensions have returned to Europe Both the North Atlantic Treaty Organization NATO and Russia are boosting their deployments in close proximity to one another and in multiple domains At the same time a host of new or dramatically improved conventional capabilities have been fielded introducing a significant level of uncertainty into the security environment Meanwhile political and military to military relations are at a post Cold War low with communication as the exception not the norm and the structure of interaction created by arms control and confidence and security building measures almost entirely collapsed Through a combination of interviews workshops and structured analysis on the causes of potential conflict the authors of this report outline new conventional arms control CAC measures to lower the risk of conflict in Europe Although it once served as a cornerstone of European security the current regional CAC regime is outdated and largely irrelevant to today s challenges Rather than starting with the existing agreements the authors begin with an investigation of the catalysts of possible conflict and build arms control policy options on that basis How might specific changes in behavior posture presence technology or capabilities and varying perceptions thereof drive conflict What capabilities or combination of capabilities are destabilizing and why And what CAC measures could be used to address these risks The authors use the answers to these questions to suggest a menu of options for a new CAC regime that could address the regional security challenges of the 21st century

A New Approach to Conventional Arms Control in Europe Samuel Charap,2020 Over 30 years after the end of the Cold War military tensions have returned to Europe Both the North Atlantic Treaty Organization NATO and Russia are boosting their deployments in close proximity to one another and in multiple domains At the same time a host of new or dramatically improved conventional capabilities have been fielded introducing a significant level of uncertainty into the security environment. Meanwhile political and military to military relations are at a post Cold War low with communication as the exception not the norm and the structure of interaction created by arms control and confidence and security building measures almost entirely collapsed. Through a combination of interviews, workshops and structured analysis on the causes of potential conflict, the authors of this report outline new conventional arms control (CAC) measures to lower the risk of conflict in Europe. Although it once served as a cornerstone of European security, the current regional CAC regime is outdated and largely irrelevant to today's challenges. Rather than starting with the existing agreements, the authors begin with an investigation of the catalysts of possible conflict and build arms control policy options on that basis. How might specific changes in behavior, posture, presence, technology or capabilities and varying perceptions thereof drive conflict? What capabilities or combination of capabilities are destabilizing and why? And what CAC measures could be used to address these risks? The authors use the answers to these questions to suggest a menu of options for a new CAC regime that could address the regional security challenges of the 21st century.

European Security in the 1990s W. Laqueur, L. Sloss, 2013-11-11

Rarely if ever have the political, economic and military foundations of the Western Alliance been in such a state of flux. Walter Laqueur and Leon Sloss therefore deserve credit not just for the quality of the analysis in this superb book but also for the timeliness of its appearance. As Laqueur says in his chapter 'Touring the Western European Defense Horizon' if the likely development of European defense policies is not particularly reassuring at least it gives no grounds for despair. The list of problems we face is a daunting one. First there is the spiralling cost of defense expenditures, particularly in the absence of significant NATO or inter-European cooperation. This is particularly serious in light of the reluctance to increase or even maintain current expenditures in the midst of Mikhail Gorbachev's peace offensive and the extraordinary changes in Eastern Europe, both of which have had a dramatic impact on Western public opinion. There is also a problem in the perceived relative economic decline of the United States vis-à-vis Western Europe and Japan which only exacerbates calls to reduce the number of American troops in Europe. Other dangers to the political cohesion and military credibility of the alliance include demographic trends that threaten current manpower levels, transatlantic acrimony over the burden sharing issue and political pressures, particularly in West Germany, toward denuclearization and even neutralism.

The Handbook of European Defence Policies and Armed Forces Hugo Meijer, Marco Wyss, 2018-06-22

The armed forces of Europe have undergone a dramatic transformation since the collapse of the Soviet Union. The Handbook of European Defence Policies and Armed Forces provides the first comprehensive analysis of national security and defence policies, strategies, doctrines, capabilities and military operations as well as the alliances and partnerships of European armed forces in response to the security challenges Europe has faced since the end of the cold war. A truly cross-European comparison of the evolution of national defence policies and armed forces remains a notable blind spot in the existing literature. The Handbook of European Defence Policies and Armed Forces aims to fill this gap with fifty-one contributions on European defence and international security from around the world The six parts focus on country based assessments of the evolution of the national defence policies of Europe s major medium and lesser powers since the end of the cold war the alliances and security partnerships developed by European states to cooperate in the provision of national security the security challenges faced by European states and their armed forces ranging from interstate through intra state and transnational the national security strategies and doctrines developed in response to these challenges the military capabilities and the underlying defence and technological industrial base brought to bear to support national strategies and doctrines and finally the national or multilateral military operations by European armed forces The contributions to The Handbook collectively demonstrate the fruitfulness of giving analytical precedence back to the comparative study of national defence policies and armed forces across Europe

Conventional Arms Control and Disarmament in Europe Douglas Hamlin, Canadian Institute for International Peace and Security, 1990 This paper sets out the issue of conventional force reductions in Europe as seen by a Canadian diplomat with long involvement in arms control In a careful and balanced fashion it outlines the key factors governing the West s policies and indicates how they evolved especially during the Mutual and Balanced Force Reductions negotiations The paper focuses on the problems of surprise attack and geostrategic disparities between the two alliances and then sets out Western thinking on such questions as verification and the long term future of security in Europe Canada's particular interests in this field are mentioned and the paper concludes with an outline of the objectives that this country ought to pursue in the new Conventional Armed Forces in Europe negotiations Prospects For Conventional Arms Control In Europe Joachim Krause, 2019-07-09 This study is an attempt to examine the political military and technical issues as well as the opportunities and pitfalls associated with conventional arms control in Europe providing a short outline of the developments that have led to the renewed interest in conventional arms control since 1985

Conventional Arms Control in Europe John Toogood, Canadian Institute for International Peace and Security, 1988 This paper sets out recommended options for initial NATO positions and tactics in the upcoming negotiations It reviews past negotiations on conventional forces in Europe highlighting developments that have significance for the new undertakings It also discusses the mandates of the Conventional Stability Talks and the Conference on Confidence and Security Building Measures and Disarmament in Europe The author also addresses the military and political factors which NATO must take into account when developing negotiating positions Finally the paper draws conclusions from the earlier discussion in this paper and sets out recommended Western negotiating positions both substantive and tactical The Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe and the Post-cold War Era Michael R. Lucas, 1990 Conventional Arms Control and East-West Security Institute for East-West Security Studies, 1989 This important and timely work prepared by the leading researchers planners and policymakers from both Eastern and Western alliances analyzes the major issues in the Vienna talks on conventional forces in Europe involving NATO and Warsaw Pact nations It is likely to have a significant influence on the course of these negotiations and on emerging debate on conventional arms control The contributors met in Moscow prior to the Vienna conference to review and compare their analyses and revised them thereafter for publication in this work

European and international institutional and policy development G. Vermeulen, W. De Bondt, 2017-02-15 This book offers an insight into the historical institutional and topical development of the EU policy in the areas of justice home affairs and security well embedded in a broader international context The main part of the book dedicated to the EU is therefore preceded by a part on relevant cooperation on the Benelux and Schengen levels and followed by a part on cooperation in the areas concerned on Council of Europe NATO OSCE G8 OECD and UN levels Without a proper understanding of those cooperation levels the development and functioning of the EU would be hard to fully grasp Before addressing the actual policy dimension all parts start with a historical introduction and a sketch of institutional structures and functioning For students and professionals in criminology law and political science and every one interested in European and international criminal policy making this book will prove relevant or insightful Defining Stability Schuyler Foerster, 2019-03-22 This book analyzes the military situation in Europe and the contending views about the military balance and important military variables there It provides very useful insights into what has often been a confusing debate about the true state of the military situation Annual Report Institute for East-West Security Studies, 1988
