Conversations With Louise Erdrich And Michael Dorris:

Conversations with Louise Erdrich and Michael Dorris Louise Erdrich, Michael Dorris, 1994 Being of mixed blood and having lived in both white and Indian worlds they give an original perspective on American society Sometimes with humor and always with refreshing candor their discussions undermine the damaging stereotypes of American Indians Some of the interviews focus on their nonfiction book The Broken Cord which recounts the struggle to solve their adopted son's health problems from fetal alcohol syndrome Included also are two recent interviews published here for the first time A Study Guide for Michael Dorris's "A Yellow Raft in Blue Water" Gale, Cengage Learning, 2016-06-29 A Study Guide for Michael Dorris's A Yellow Raft in Blue Water excerpted from Gale's acclaimed Novels for Students This concise study guide includes plot summary character analysis author biography study questions historical context suggestions for further reading and much more For any literature project trust Novels for Students for all of your research needs Conversations with American Novelists Kay Bonetti, 1997 Readers of fine novels cherish the opportunity to hear their favorite novelists speak directly without commentary or interpretation about how their lives and concerns drive their fiction writing For twenty years The Missouri Review has brought these readers some of the most compelling and thought provoking literary interviews in print In this collection of fifteen in depth interviews with contemporary novelists the authors discuss the style and themes of their work their writing habits their cultural and social backgrounds and larger aesthetic issues with refreshing insight about themselves and their art Originally conducted for the American Audio Prose Library the interviews were then edited for publication in The Missouri Review Here they are reproduced with an introduction and with a brief biographical and bibliographical headnote for each writer These candid interviews with some of our favorite novelists are sure to delight all readers Authors Interviewed in This Volume Robert Stone Jamaica Kincaid Jim Harrison Tom McGuane Louise Erdrich and Michael Dorris John Edgar Wideman Robb Forman Dew Rosellen Brown Peter Matthiessen Scott Turow Margaret Walker Linda Hogan Robert Olen Butler Jessica Hagedorn Larry Brown Women Coauthors Holly A. Laird, 2000 Until recently collaborative authorship has barely been considered by scholars when it has the focus has been on discovering who contributed what and who dominated whom in the relationship and in the writing In Women Coauthors Holly Laird reads coauthored texts as the realization of new kinds of relationship Through close scrutiny of literary collaborations in which women writers have played central roles Women Coauthors shows how partnerships in writing between two women or between a woman and a man provide a paradigm of literary creativity that complicates traditional views of both author and text and makes us revise old habits of thinking about writing Focusing on the social dynamics of literary production including the conversations that precede and surround collaborative writing Women Coauthors treats its coauthored texts as representations as well as acts of collaboration Holly A Laird discusses a wide array of partial and full coauthorships to reveal how these texts blur or remap often uncanny boundaries of self status race reason and culture that of the Delany came out in 1984 to instant and international acclaim A short story cycle narrated by a variety of different characters the book chronicles the intertwined histories of Chippewa and mixed blood families in North Dakota over half a century laying bare the ordeals and joys of twentieth century Native American life and evoking the continued relevance of homeland humor and storytelling to indigenous survival Les Cahiers de la nouvelle, 1997 Points of Convergence Raili Pöldsaa, Krista Vogelberg, 2003 Narratives of Community Roxanne Harde, 2007 Narratives of Community draws together essays that examine short story sequences by women through the lenses of Sandra Zagarell TM s theoretical essay oeNarrative of Community Reading texts from countries around the world the collection TM s twenty two contributors expand scholarship on the genre as they employ diverse theoretical models to consider how female identity is negotiated in community or the roles of women in domestic social and literary community Grouped into four sections based on these examinations the essays demonstrate how Zagarell TM s theory can provide a point of reference for multiple approaches to women TM s writing as they read the semiotic systems of community While oenarrative of community provides an organizing principle behind this collection these essays offer critical approaches grounded in a wide variety of disciplines Zagarell contributes the collection TM s concluding essay in which she provides a series of reflections on literary and cultural representations of community on generic categorizations of community and on regionalism and narrative of community as she returns to theoretical ground she first broke almost twenty years ago Overall these essays bring their contributors and readers into a community engaged with a narrative genre that inspires and affords a rich and growing tradition of scholarship With Narratives of Community editor Roxanne Harde offers a wealth of critical essays on a wide variety of women s linked series of short stories essays that can be seen overall to explore the genre as a kind of meeting house of fictional form and meaning for an inclusive sororal community The book itself joins a growing critical community of monographs and essay collections that have been critically documenting the rise of the modern genre of the story cycle to a place second only to the novel But more than simply joining this critical venture Narratives of Community makes a major contribution to studies in the short story feminist theory women s studies and genre theory Its introduction and essays should prove of enduring interest to scholars and critics in these fields as well as continue highly useful in the undergraduate and graduate classrooms Gerald Lynch Professor of English University of Ottawa The introduction by Prof Harde and the 20 essays in the book dialogue with Sandra Zagarell TM s proposed paradigm oenarratives of community which other scholars have called oeshort story cycles or oestory sequences Zagarell TM s proposal organically blends a generic model with a thematic concern to explain how women writing community often turn to a particular narrative style that itself supports the literary creation of that community Harde and the volume contributors appropriate this brilliant and engaging proposal in the context of other crucial discussions of the genre notably Forest Ingram TM s germinal study J Gerald Kennedy TM s work and those by Robert Luscher Maggie Dunn and Anne Morris James Nagel Gerald Lynch and I TM m honored to note my own study on Asian American short story cycles to expand the range of the critical discussion on the form. The quality and diversity of the essays remind us that there is still much work that can be done in the area of genre studies. The volume emphasizes an important caveat to one vital misconception that although writers like James Joyce or Sherwood Anderson are thought to be the precursors or even reinventors of the form, women's sequences by Sara Orne Jewett and Elizabeth Gaskell among others actually predate the work of the male writers. This fact suggests that the development of the form as a genre that attends to specific perspectives or creative formulations of and by women needs to be considered in depth. The temporal scope of the volume is therefore a vital contribution to scholarship on the form as is the diversity of the writers analyzed. Indeed, the examination of narratives by writers from different countries and that focus on characters from different time periods, racial, religious, or ethnic communities, and social class impels a multilayered reading of the texts that inevitably promotes a nuanced understanding of the project of each of the writers, a project that connects issues of individuality and community in varied and often surprising ways. The essays thus critically explore the notion of community in its myriad associations with the individual and as a crucial site not only for women's action upon the world but also for her creative endeavors. The essays in the volume revisit familiar texts: Naylor's The Women of Brewster Place, Cisneros's The House on Mango Street, Kingston's The Woman Warrior, Welty's The Golden Apples, Munro's The Lives of Girls and Women, among others, but offer new perspectives on the way form interacts with issues of women's communities and women creating community in these works. Significantly, it also offers readings on texts that have not been analyzed in detail from this perspective: Gaskell's Cranford or Woolf's A Haunted House, for example, thus contributing to a continuing conversation about the ways women write. The juxtaposition of the familiar and the new expands the paradigms of current criticism not only on the story cycle but also on women's writing in general. Rocio Davis, Professor of Literature, University of Navarre, Roxanne Harde's forthcoming volume Narratives of Community: Women's Short Story Sequences provides an abundant collection of varied responses to Sandra Zagarell's longstanding call for further in-depth exploration of the genre that Zagarell christened "the narrative of community" in her 1988 essay linking non-novelistic narrative form with representations of female experience. As Harde observes, such narratives of community overlap significantly with the growing canon of unified but discontinuous collections of autonomous stories that critics have variously labeled as the short story cycle, sequence, composite. The essays in her collection examine a rich variety of such works by women, extending the scholarship in this area. Harde's ample collection of essays presents a concerted and diverse exploration of the implications of the short story sequence form as a representation of women's lives as part of and in conflict with membership in a community. Overall, Harde's volume is a welcome addition to current scholarship on the short story sequence, bringing in a variety of new voices and perspectives to the community of scholars who have engaged in the exploration of this paradoxical, evolving, and increasingly popular genre.
