Coop Himmelblau Architecture Is:

Coop Himmelblau, Architecture is Now Coop Himmelblau, 1983 Covering + Exposing Frank Werner, 2000-01-01 Since 1968 Coop Himmelblau has been practicing a form of architecture which provocatively breaks away from traditional structures to expose inherent tensions The principles of deconstructivism can be seen in many of their most famous buildings and projects the seminal Falkestrasse roof extension in Vienna the east wing of the museum in Groningen the JVC New Urban Entertainment Centre in Mexico the spectacular UFA cinema centre in Dresden and the SEG residential tower in Vienna Their work has been the subject of international exhibitions in New York Los Angeles and Chicago and in 1996 they represented Austria in the Venice Biennale Coop Himmelblau Coop Himmelblau, Peter Gössel, Michael Mönninger, 2010 Coop Himmelblau is a multi award winning cooperative architectural design firm located in Vienna with offices in Los Angeles and Guadalajara Mexico This book looks at the company's most notable buildings The Works of Coop Himmelblau, 1989 Coop Himmelblau Coop Himmelblau, 2007 Coop Himmelblau's psychogram technique began as a technique to free architecture from clichés a renunciation of design methods seen by Pritzker and Swiczinsky to serve discredited institutions and authorities By forcing themselves out of their own comfort levels with building they learned how to amplify the dynamic tensions of a space P 47 Get Off of My Cloud Martina Kandeler-Fritsch, Thomas Kramer, 2005 Coop Himmelblau was founded in 1968 in Vienna Austria by Wolf D. Pritzker and Helmut Swiczinsky and has since then continued to work within the fields of urbanism architecture design and art They design each project based on a series of intense discussions which will be presented in this text Coop Himmelblau, Wolf Pritzker and Helmut Swiczinsky Sara Richardson, 1989 Coop Himmelblau Alvin Boyarsky, Wolf D. Pritzker, Michael Sorkin, Helmut Swiczinsky, 1988 Exquisite Corpse Michael Sorkin, 1991 Exquisite Corpse was a game played by the surrealists in which someone drew on a piece of paper folded it and passed it to the next person to draw on until finally the sheet was opened to reveal a calculated yet random composition In this entertaining and provocative book Michael Sorkin suggests that cities are similarly assembled by many players acting with varying autonomy in a complicit framework An unfolding terrain of invention the city is also a means of accommodating disparity of contextualizing sometimes startling juxtapositions Sorkin's aim is to widen the debate about the creation of buildings beyond the immediate issues of technology and design He discusses the politics and culture of architecture with daring often devastating observations about the institutions and personalities who have dominated the profession over the past decade Their preoccupation with the empty style of beach houses and Disneyland has consistently trivialized the full constructive scope of contemporary architecture's possibilities Sorkin's interventions range from the development scandals of New York where skyscrapers stand at the intersection between grid and greed through the deconstructivist architectural culture of Los Angeles to the work and ideas of architects developers and critics such as Alvar Aalto Norman Foster Paul Goldberger Michael Graves Coop Himmelblau Philip Johnson Leon Krier Frank Lloyd Wright

Richard Rogers Carlo Scarpa James Stirling Donald Trump Tom Wolfe and Lebbeus Woods Throughout Sorkin combines stinging polemic with a powerful call for a rebirth of architecture that is visionary and experimental a recuperated dreamy science

The Architectural Uncanny Anthony Vidler, 1994-03-29 Anthony Vidler interprets contemporary buildings and projects in light of the resurgent interest in the uncanny as a metaphor for a fundamentally unhomely modern condition The Architectural Uncanny presents an engaging and original series of meditations on issues and figures that are at the heart of the most pressing debates surrounding architecture today Anthony Vidler interprets contemporary buildings and projects in light of the resurgent interest in the uncanny as a metaphor for a fundamentally unhomely modern condition The essays are at once historical serving to situate contemporary discourse in its own intellectual tradition and theoretical opening up the complex and difficult relationships between politics social thought and architectural design in an era when the reality of homelessness and the idealism of the neo avant garde have never seemed so far apart Vidler one of the deftest and surest critics of the contemporary scene explores aspects of architecture through notions of the uncanny as they have been developed in literature philosophy and psychology from the beginning of the nineteenth century to the present He interprets the unsettling qualities of today's architecture its fragmented neo constructivist forms reminiscent of dismembered bodies its seeing walls replicating the passive gaze of domestic cyborgs its historical monuments indistinguishable from glossy reproductions in the light of modern reflection on questions of social and individual estrangement alienation exile and homelessness Focusing on the work of architects such as Bernard Tschumi Rem Koolhaas Peter Eisenman Coop Himmelblau John Hejduk Elizabeth Diller and Ricardo Scofidio as well as theorists of the urban condition Vidler delineates the problems and paradoxes associated with the subject of domesticity

International Architecture Yearbook No.5 Images Publishing Group, 1999 Now in its fifth year the International Architectural Yearbook has gained recognition throughout the world as a valuable resource a review of a selection of the finest architectural projects worldwide A highly stringent selection process has been implemented to include the most deserving projects built over the past year

Warped Space Anthony Vidler, 2002-02-22 How psychological ideas of space have profoundly affected architectural and artistic expression in the twentieth century Beginning with agoraphobia and claustrophobia in the late nineteenth century followed by shell shock and panic fear after World War I phobias and anxiety came to be seen as the mental condition of modern life They became incorporated into the media and arts in particular the spatial arts of architecture urbanism and film This spatial warping is now being reshaped by digitalization and virtual reality Anthony Vidler is concerned with two forms of warped space The first a psychological space is the repository of neuroses and phobias This space is not empty but full of disturbing forms including those of architecture and the city The second kind of warping is produced when artists break the boundaries of genre to depict space in new ways Vidler traces the emergence of a psychological idea of space from Pascal and Freud to the identification of agoraphobia and claustrophobia in the nineteenth century to twentieth century theories of spatial alienation and estrangement in the writings of Georg Simmel Siegfried Kracauer and Walter Benjamin Focusing on current conditions of displacement and placelessness he examines ways in which contemporary artists and architects have produced new forms of spatial warping The discussion ranges from theorists such as Jacques Lacan and Gilles Deleuze to artists such as Vito Acconci Mike Kelley Martha Rosler and Rachel Whiteread Finally Vidler looks at the architectural experiments of Frank Gehry Coop Himmelblau Daniel Libeskind Greg Lynn Morphosis and Eric Owen Moss in the light of new digital techniques that while relying on traditional perspective have radically transformed the composition production and experience perhaps even the subject itself of architecture
