Schneider, Nils Witte, 2021-04-29 Based on the German case this open access book highlights the increasing flows of migration and the internationalisation of individual life courses It analyses the experiences of migration across four central domains employment and income partners and families health and wellbeing as well as friends and social participation which potentially have far reaching consequences for social inequalities and life chances The book showcases results from an innovative probability sample that is representative of German emigrants who recently moved abroad and remigrants who recently returned from abroad and compares their international experiences with the sedentary population in Germany Stays abroad whether temporary or permanently have become the new normal for increasing numbers of people from highly developed welfare states Unnoticed from mainstream migration studies these countries are today not only major immigration countries but also important sources of international mobility By providing an empirically founded prism of the global lives of German migrants this book is a valuable resource for students and researchers of migration social inequality and the life course and provides practitioners with insights into these regularly overlooked aspects of international migration Parliamentary Papers Great Britain. its point of departure in the existence of an observable phenomenon of the tourism industry of Mecklenburg Western Pomerania MV namely the very low density and almost absence of Danish tourists at the MV Baltic coastline although they present a highly profitable and potential target group The main objective of the present thesis is the demonstration of an explorative insight view into the existing level of perceived destination image and awareness of Danish tourists in regard to their potential holiday destination at the Baltic coastline of Mecklenburg Western Pomerania MV in order to emphasise the enormous potential of the Danish target market for the tourist destinations at the MV coastline Additionally the lack of target group awareness by the MV destination marketers will be demonstrated as presently this potential seems to be rarely recognised and in particular not fully utilised The theoretical frameworks used in order to analyse the above stated phenomenon will derive from destination marketing theories and theories of destination image formation as well as destination brand image also in a local and international context Additionally theories of general tourist behaviour and particularly the importance of target group awareness by destination marketers will be discussed in the tourism context of the MV coastline Following t
