South-South Globalization S. Mansoor Murshed, Pedro Goulart, Leandro Serino, 2011-06-16 Two prominent features of the current global economy are the world wide recession brought about by the recent financial crisis and the emergence of major economic powers from within the developing world such as Brazil China and India The former represents the failure of global regulatory policies and macroeconomic imbalances between surplus and deficit countries the latter is symptomatic of a partial shift in economic power towards developing nations who are often collectively labelled the global South The macroeconomic imbalances are unsustainable in the longer run as they mean greater absorption relative to income in deficit nations they require corrective action and international policy coordination Reducing imbalances also requires large developing countries to raise their domestic consumption and also imports from the rest of the world and international financial institutions to operate as a lender of last resort Furthermore the engines of global growth especially for developing countries may no longer lie solely in the traditional developed country markets in the USA Europe and Japan known collectively as the global North Rather South South trade is growing rapidly and that could be an engine of growth for the global economy including both developed and developing countries The various chapters in this edited volume address issues surrounding global imbalances and the prospects for growth in developing countries propelled by South South interaction This book should be of interest to students and researchers focussing on political economics international economics globalization global imbalance and the world wide recession after 2008

Globalization and the Challenge for Developing Countries Shahid Yusuf, 2001 A comprehensive approach to globalization managed and abetted by good policies can magnify the effects of growth promoting measures Globalization and Development Studies Frans Johan Schuurman, 2001 As a whole the book is a useful compilation of rigorous academics papers The contributions by the editor have woven these into an organic whole rather than being a conglomerate of uncorrelated works on a common theme K B S Sidhu The Tribune This text provides a comprehensive introduction to the concept of globalization and its challenge to the contemporary study of development Part I introduces the theoretical issues and debates surrounding globalization illustrates the often contested nature of the concept and considers the implications for the future of development studies Part II reviews more specific theory and policy implications by assessing the impact of globalization to a number of key areas of study in development studies These include the environment gender human rights multinationals and urban development An essential underlying theme to the book is whether a seeming transition from development studies to global studies is offering anything new and fruitful for our future understanding and study of development The Global Politics of Unequal Development Anthony Payne, 2017-09-16 Although the phrase North South divide is not heard so much these days what separates rich countries from poor countries is a question that is still very much with us Anthony Payne offers a new way of thinking about these issues grounded in the insights of global political economy and interpreting contemporary global politics as a contest between the development strategies of competing countries The Palgrave Handbook of Development Economics Machiko Nissanke, José Antonio Ocampo, 2019-08-12 This Handbook responds to the needs and aspirations of current and future generations of development economists by providing critical reference material alongside or in relation to mainstream propositions Despite the potential of globalisation in accelerating growth and development in low and middle income countries through the spread of technology knowledge and information its current practice in many parts of the world has led to processes that are socially economically and politically and ecologically unsustainable It is critical for development economists to engage with the pivotal question of how to change the nature and course of globalisation to make it work for inclusive and sustainable development Applying a critical and pluralistic approach the chapters in this Handbook examine economics of development paths under globalisation focusing on sustainable development in social environmental institutional and political economy dimensions It aims at advancing the frontier of development economics in these key aspects and generating more refined policy perspectives It is critically reflective in examining effects of globalisation on development paths to date and in terms of methodological and analytical approaches as well as forward thinking in policy perspectives with a view to laying a foundation for sustainable development NEPAD and the Challenges of Development in Nigeria Dennis Ityavyar, Zacharys Gundu, 2006 Global Development Policy in the 21st Century Marcin Grabowski, Pawel Laidler, 2019-03-28 This book addresses new challenges of development in the 21st century Issues connected with globalization political challenges entrepreneurship institutional design clean energy health service gender in developing regions are analyzed All those issues refer to developing countries in Asia Africa Latin America Central and Eastern Europe New Regional Development Paradigms: Globalization and the new regional development Asfaw Kumssa, T. G. McGee, 2001 The era of globalization is creating profound changes in global relationships changes that are manifest at international regional national and sub national levels making traditional regional development policy obsolete and irrelevant Traditional policy needs to be redefined and reconstructed so it can capture and articulate emerging regional trends and issues The first of four volumes based mainly on Global Forum on Regional Development Policy organized by the United Nations Centre for Regional Development in Nagoya Japan this book presents a broad theoretical and trend analysis of globalization and its effects on the theory and practice of regional development The book lays out the major components that merit consideration if there is to be new regional planning in this millennium While contributors to the volume do not agree on the effects of globalization on economic growth there is a consensus in the volume that globalization presents a challenge to conventional development theories The challenge for regional planners is to examine the impact and implications of recent structural changes on regional development planning and come up with viable and pragmatic regional development strategies This volume begins to meet that challenge by laying out the major components that merit consideration The following volumes will present detailed case studies of current regional planning practices focusing largely on developing countries Globalization and National Development at the End of the 20th Century Andrés Solimano, 1999 Discusses the progress of globalization the role of global financial institutions in dealing with globalization and the need for responsible regional and national institutions in a globalized economy Financing for Development - Challenges of development cooperation and development finance in a globalized world Christian Herbst, 2006-03-01 Master's Thesis from the year 2005 in the subject Economics International Economic Relations grade 1.7 Stralsund University of Applied Sciences language English abstract Preface The recent years have been the era of globalization with enormous growth in international trade financial flows and foreign direct investment FDI Globalization intensifies interdependence between formerly separated nations however the world seems to be more fragmented between the rich and the poor between the powerful and the powerless and between supporters and opponents of the new global economy Current figures reveal the contradiction between those that have managed to benefit from globalization and those that are considered to be the losers of this period A girl born in Japan has a 50 percent chance of seeing the 22nd century while a newborn in Afghanistan has a 25 percent chance of dying before age 5 The richest five percent of the world's people have incomes 114 times those of the poorest five¹ and the world's richest one percent of people receive as much income as the poorest 57 percent² The developing countries are currently facing two major problems The first one is income poverty In order to reduce the share of people living on one Dollar a day the per capita income has to grow by 3.7 percent annually

according to optimistic estimations However only 24 developing countries have realized these growth rates in the recent years On the other hand more than 127 countries with 34 percent of the world population have not grown at this rate 3 Many countries have suffered negative growth and the share of the poor people has increased although the public focused increasingly on the poverty problem in the recent years as it just happened at the Live Aid Concert The second problem is infant mortality 85 countries are on the track to reduce infant mortality to one third of the 1990 level but they comprise less than one quarter of the world population One the other hand 81 percent of the countries with more than 60 percent of the world population will not be able to achieve this goal until 2015 Every day more than 30 000 children die of preventable diseases 4 It is dramatic that many countries that will not achieve this goal are among the world s poorest i e the least developed countries 1 Source UNDP Human Development Report 2002 Oxford University Press Oxford 2002 Page 13 2 Source Ibidem Page 19 3 Source Ibidem Page 17 4 Source Ibidem
