Developing And Implementing Service Learning Programs Vol 114 New Directions For Higher Education:

Developing and Implementing Service-Learning Programs Mark Canada, Bruce W. Speck, 2001-07-11 This issue examines service learning the emerging form of higher education bringing together students teachers and community partners in ways that foster the student s responsible citizenship and promotes a lifelong involvement in civic and social issues It also demonstrates how institutions can create effective service learning programs that couple academic work in the classroom with students service to an organization in the field Authors explore successful service learning programs in a variety of settings from liberal arts colleges to research institutions and offer clear practical advice on such matters as finding community partners reaching diverse populations assessment concerns and integrating service learning and research This issue shall serve as an invaluable resource for educators interested in this relatively new but challenging pedagogy Tools for Teaching Barbara Gross Davis, 2009-07-17 This is the long awaited update on the bestselling book that offers a practical accessible reference manual for faculty in any discipline This new edition contains up to date information on technology as well as expanding on the ideas and strategies presented in the first edition It includes more than sixty one chapters designed to improve the teaching of beginning mid career or senior faculty members The topics cover both traditional tasks of teaching as well as broader concerns such as diversity and inclusion in the classroom and technology in educational settings

International Service-learning Approaches Dorcia B. Chaison, 2008 Engaged Scholarship Lynette Shultz, Tania Kajner, 2013-09-03 This volume brings together diverse theoretical reflections and practices of community engaged scholarship in order to stimulate critical discussion deepen theory and invite critical practice It is an international trend that higher education institutions and agencies are encouraging and promoting community engagement At the same time there is recognition of a lack of consistent definitions and understandings of what it is they are promoting As a counterweight to the dominance of pragmatic and technical discussions in the literature on engaged scholarship the chapters in this book shift the discourse to ask foundational questions that emphasize the political nature of engagement Recognizing that acts of engagement are never neutral the authors in this book explore how engaged scholarship requires decision making that is inherently grounded in values beliefs and interpretations of what is and what ought to be Alongside complex global and local social movements rising to address issues for example climate change or the global financial collapse and the uneven consequences of these globalized problems we see corresponding concerns expressed about the limited participation by excluded silenced and invisibilized people throughout the world How can engaged scholarship be mobilized and who will it serve within such contexts With contributions covering such diverse topics as a non binary approach to engagement citizenship of knowledge university contexts and corporatization stranger pedagogies and anti foundational approaches to service learning contemporary revolutionary movements in the Arab world and transforming higher education through Africanist onto epistemologies this volume is poised to open the door to a deeper understanding of engaged scholarship
