Artificial Intelligence in Animal Behaviour, Veterinary Behaviour and Neurology Holger Andreas Volk, Jasmin Nicole Nessler, Anna Zamansky, Sebastian Meller, Annika Bremhorst, 2025-08-18 The new leap innovation Artificial Intelligence AI will significantly accelerate the speed of science and translate into clinical practice faster than clinicians ever have been used to Machine and deep learning techniques are now readily available to analyze large and complex data sets providing veterinary scientists with a tool to not only better understand complex behaviour traits and neurological conditions but also to delve into the nuances of animal behaviour itself AI can now write plausible sounding text recognize written or spoken human words recognize objects in images or analyze large amounts of data Different fields of applications are known so far such as improving and speeding up interpretation of radiologic findings interpretation of electroencephalography diagnosis of autism in children objectifying ataxia in dogs detecting pain in cats and assessing and characterizing animal behaviours across species At the time of writing more than 500 AI based algorithms have been approved by the FDA for human medicine most of which are used in radiology and neurology In veterinary neurology and animal behavioural science only a limited amount of research on AI has been done so far Most algorithms presented are merely fragments of usable programs and are not suitable for clinical application Therefore ready to use applications are rare yet essential for implementing AI into everyday routine diagnostic work ups scientific research and animal behavioural assessments The research topic will help to unite current efforts and provide a collection of articles to address some of the current scientific and behavioural gaps In the future a clinician might have a clinical decision support tool that generates accurate estimations of likely outcomes of neurological disease and animal behaviour combining anamnestic behavioural clinical pathology and imaging information We are interested in original research systematic reviews and opinion papers not only about the scope and potential of AI for Veterinary Behavior and Neurology but also about the intersection of AI with the study of animal behaviour ethical considerations and pitfalls that the development of AI generated tools could present Potential themes therefore include but are not limited to AI to recognize monitor diagnose or characterise behaviour neurological deficits or conditions including a detailed analysis of animal behaviour across a variety of contexts and species AI to assess behavioural states in both clinical and natural environments AI to interpret scientific clinical data sets such as clinical pathology omics imaging EEG data and behaviour metrics Ethical and legal considerations when applying or using AI tools in the study of animal behaviour and veterinary medicine Potential of AI to enhance clinical practice in veterinary behavioural medicine veterinary neurology and animal behaviour research Potential of AI enhanced diagnostic and behavioural assessment tools with animals

Liabilities and Modern Artificial Intelligence Estelle Wallingford, 2025-09-09

This book addresses how private law liability should be assigned in contexts where modern forms of AI are deployed AI as a technology holds the potential to radically improve global society yet the pace of its advancement far outstrips the pace at which legal systems are responding This book explores legal approaches to AI how AI should be legally characterised and proposes an overarching theoretical liability framework termed the Tri Phase AI Liability Model This framework is flexible in nature and considers the type of AI the context in which it is deployed who has the most control over the AI system and the capacity of a deployed AI In response this book brings greatly needed clarity to the evolving landscape of AI governance aiding in resolving existing and emerging private law challenges This book is a timely response to the urgent need to resolve private law liabilities and will appeal to legal professionals policy makers and scholars looking to understand or contribute to the current and future governance of AI within private law

Reader Bot Naomi S. Baron, 2026-01-20

What happens to human reading when AI bots can do it for us Explosive developments in artificial intelligence have awed everyday users with the technology's ability to draw on computer coding and especially to write Those AI generated essays and poems legal briefs and responses to requests for information are all visible evidence of large language models at work What we don't see is the critical prior step before it can write AI needs to read While AI's written outcomes are remarkably similar to what a diligent student lawyer or researcher might produce AI doesn't read the way that humans do Now that AI is proving an adept reader what happens to our own reading skills and motivations especially at a time when both voluntary and school reading are increasingly on the decline We have learned that when we let chatbots write for us there are pros and cons to handing over our virtual pens It s critical that we also think through the consequences of relinquishing reading a deeply human activity to bots What do we stand to gain and lose when we let AI read for us Tracing the intersecting trajectories of AI and reading Reader Bot tackles this vital question revealing why we must be thoughtful about how we welcome AI as reader into our lives
