Lockwood, 2017-04-15 Exploring censorship imposed by corporate wealth and power this book focuses on the energy industry in Wyoming where coal oil and gas are pillars of the economy The author examines how governmental bodies and public institutions have suppressed the expression of ideas that conflict with the financial interests of those who profit from fossil fuels He reveals the ways in which university administrations art museums education boards and research institutes have been coerced into destroying artwork abandoning studies modifying curricula and firing employees His book is an eloquent story of the conflict between private wealth and free speech Providing more of the nation's energy than any other state Wyoming is a sociopolitical lens that magnifies the conflicts in the American West But the issues are relevant to any community that is dependent on a dominant industry and wherever the liberties of citizens and the ethics of public officials are at risk I Should Have Honor Khalida Brohi, 2018-09-04 A fearless memoir about tribal life in Pakistan and the act of violence that inspired one ambitious young woman to pursue a life of activism and female empowerment Khalida Brohi understands the true nature of honor She is fearless in her pursuit of justice and equality Malala Yousafzai winner of the Nobel Peace Prize From a young age Khalida Brohi was raised to believe in the sanctity of arranged marriage Her mother was forced to marry a thirteen year old boy when she was only nine Khalida herself was promised as a bride before she was even born But her father refused to let her become a child bride He was a man who believed in education not just for himself but for his daughters and Khalida grew up thinking she would become the first female doctor in her small village Khalida thought her life was proceeding on an unusual track for a woman of her circumstances but one whose path was orderly and straightforward Everything shifted for Khalida when she found out that her beloved cousin had been murdered by her uncle in a tradition known as honor killing Her cousin's crime She had fallen in love with a man who was not her betrothed This moment ignited the spark in Khalida Brohi that inspired a globe spanning career as an activist beginning at the age of sixteen From a tiny cement roofed room in Karachi where she was allowed ten minutes of computer use per day Brohi started a Facebook campaign that went viral From there she created a foundation focused on empowering the lives of women in rural communities through education and employment opportunities while crucially working to change the minds of their male partners fathers and brothers This book is the story of how Brohi while only a girl herself shone her light on the women and girls of Pakistan despite the hurdles and threats she faced along the way And ultimately she learned that the only way to eradicate the parts of a culture she despised was to fully embrace the parts of it that she loved Praise for I Should Have

Honor Khalida Brohi's moving story is a testament to what is possible no matter the odds. In her courageous activism and now in I Should Have Honor, Khalida gives a voice to the women and girls who are denied their own by society. This book is a true act of honor. Discourses of Violence--violence of Discourses Dirk Wiemann, 2005. The issues of violence and its control, containment or overcoming range prominently in the social sciences. Empirical sociology seeks to derive generalizable explanations from its research into concrete cases of the occurrence or absence of violent conflict, aspiring to transform such explanations into instructions for strategic action. Within cultural studies, discursive and epistemic formations are assumed to be fundamentally and endemically violent. In these perspectives, the quotidian violence that ineluctably inheres in modern discourses manifests itself as e.g. normalisation, privilege and exclusion, thus sharing a wide range of common objects and objectives with the social sciences. The essays collected in this volume address contemporary conjunctures and discourses of violence in world society from different disciplines ranging from cultural studies, social science, political science and philosophy to history, literary criticism and psychology. Growing Old in America, 1994.
