Don James Prewar Surfing Photographs:

The Pre-war Surfing Photographs of Don James Donald H. James, James Danziger Gallery, 1998 Don James, 2003-09

A strong sense of nostalgia and a yearning for a simpler life are the accompaniments to the images in Don James's Pre War Surfing Photographs. At the end of the Depression and before the beginning of WWII, James and a small group of friends lived a charmed life in Southern California. When school was out, they roamed the undeveloped Eden-like coast from Malibu to San Onofre, scraping together gas money for their worn jalopies, lugging 90-pound wooden boards to the ocean, sleeping in lifeguard huts and makeshift tent camps in the sand. They lived hand to mouth, plucking an endless supply of abalone and lobster from the ocean and raiding nearby orange and avocado orchards at night. What spending money they had came from guiding rumrunners to secluded coves, selling fresh fish to local restaurants, lifeguarding in posh beach clubs in Santa Monica, or acting as stuntmen and extras for Hollywood films. At that time, there were fewer than 200 surfers in the entire state, and James and his friends were inventing a beach surf culture that would endure for decades. In 1936, at 16 years old, James began chronicling those days with his father's folding Brownie camera. For water shots, he would place the camera in a homemade semi-waterproof pine box, rest the box atop his board, and paddle out to the calm water adjacent to the surf. Focal range of the Brownie was limited, and James preferred to keep his frame uncluttered, so many of the photographs have a similar weight and balance. The images in Pre War Surfing Photographs are the result of his preliminary endeavours and the works that marked the beginning of James's career. He continued to perfect his skills after serving in the Navy and went on to take a multitude of elegant surfing photographs for which he became famous until his death in the 1990s. Don James Pre War Surfing Photographs Portfolios. The portfolios chronicle the lazy golden days of the emerging surf culture on Southern California's coast in the spring and summer of 1936 and form an elegant collection that complements interests in surfing history or fine photography. Each of the five deluxe editions contains four different 6 8 x 4 6 archival prints reproduced from the original negatives found in Don James's studio shortly after his death in 1996. The photographs are printed with soy-based UV inks on 100% cotton rag acid-free paper. Each print is mounted on an acid-free 4-ply board with a numbered certificate of authenticity and enclosed in a glassine sleeve. Don James, 2003-09
