Doing It the Right Way John Giovanni Milano, 2005-11 Doing It the Right Way is a heart warming story of business success. It is particularly appealing in this day of instant gratification where success might be short lived and recognition is often achieved at the expense of others. The story opens in Sorrento Italy where John Milano grew up on the wrong side of the tracks. As a young boy learning first how to dodge the Germans and then how to wheel and deal from American GIs John began to sharpen his innate entrepreneurial skills. He was such a natural charmer and born salesman that Norman Vincent Peale urged him to immigrate to the United States and pledged to lend his help. But having a limited education, a lack of proficiency in English and no funds John had his doubts. So he played around town catering to tourists and spending every penny he made. Then he fell in love and married an Italian American girl from Staten Island. On a trip to New York to meet her family he finally decided to take Dr. Peale's offer. John began work in the hat department of a haberdashery in Lower Manhattan, painstakingly learned the business from the bottom up, rose through the ranks and beyond his wildest dreams became president of the largest manufacturer of men's headwear in the country. He moved to the Dallas metropolitan area where he eventually established his own business, the Milano Hat Company. But reaching the top wasn't instant. In easy narrative Doing It the Right Way relates John's road to success. The formula is quite simple: work hard, be honest, learn from the best, recognize the masters, don't cut corners, and do it right the first time. John Milano earned many industry awards during his career. He received the coveted Horatio Alger Award in 1976 in recognition of initiative, hard work, honesty, and adherence to traditional ideals. Such an honor could happen only in America, he claims. Catalogue of the London Library, St. James Square, London London Library, Charles Theodore Hagberg Wright, Christopher James Purnell, 1914 Library of Congress Catalogs Library of Congress, 1978 Bulletin of the International Railway Congress Association [English Edition] International Railway Congress Association, 1910 Bulletin of the International Railway Congress Association International Railway Congress Association, 1910 Monthly Bulletin International Railway Congress Association, 1910 International Who's who in Music and Musicians' Directory David M.
