Male Professionals in Nineteenth Century Britain Laurence Brockliss, Harry Smith, 2024-07-12 Male Professionals in Nineteenth Century Britain is the first statistically based social cultural and familial history of a fast growing and socially prominent section of the Victorian propertied classes It is built around a representative cohort of 750 men who were recorded in the 1851 census as practising a profession in eight British provincial towns with distinctive economic and social profiles Brighton Bristol Dundee Greenock Leeds Merthyr Tydfil Winchester and the twin county town of Northumberland Alnwick Morpeth The book provides a collective account of the cohort s lives and the lives of their families across four generations starting with their parents and ending with their grandchildren It touches on the history of 16 000 individuals The book aims to throw light on the extent to which nineteenth century professionals had a distinctive socio cultural profile as sociologists and some historians have claimed or were largely indistinguishable from other members of propertied society as most historians today assume without further investigation In exploring this question particular attention is paid to the cohort families wealth household size education occupational history geographical mobility and broader involvement in society measured by their members choice of marriage partner their kinship and friendship circles their political allegiance and their leisure activities The book demonstrates that male professionals in the Victorian era were far from being a homogenous group but were divided in many ways The most important was wealth which played a key role in the social and occupational fortunes of their descendants These divisions largely explain why some professionals and some individual professions were much more likely to display endogenous characteristics than others The book also demonstrates that even the most successful professional families got poorer over time and reveals how easily in the age of industrialisation branches of families and sometimes complete families could drop out of the elite
