William Edward Fitch

Domestication Of The Human Species:

The Domestication of the Human Species Peter J. Wilson, 1991-01-23 In this exciting new book the author of Man the Promising Primate takes domestication as the starting point for his continued inquiry into human evolution Peter J Wilson believes that the most radical and far reaching innovation in human development was this settling down into a built environment and he argues that it had a crucial effect on human psychology and social relations His insights not only offer an enriched understanding of human behavior and human history but also point the way toward amendments to long standing social theories

The Human Species Armand de Quatrefages de Bréau, 1881

The Domestication of Humans Robert G. Bednarik, 2020-03-27 The Domestication of Humans explains the alternative to the African Eve model by attributing human modernity not to a speciation event in Africa but to the unintended self domestication of humans This alternative account of human origins provides the reader with a comprehensive explanation of all features defining our species that is consistent with all the available evidence These traits include but are not limited to massive neotenisation numerous somatic changes susceptibility to almost countless detrimental conditions and maladaptations brain atrophy loss of oestrus and thousands of genetic impairments The teleological fantasy of replacement by a superior species that has dominated the topic of modern human origins has never explained any of the many features that distinguish us from our robust ancestors This book explains all of them in one consistent elegant theory It presents the most revolutionary proposal of human origins since Darwin Although primarily intended for the academic market this book is perfectly suitable for anyone interested in how and why we became the species that we are today

A History of Domesticated Animals Frederick Everard Zeuner, 1963 The author discusses domestication on the basis of archaeological palaeontological and biological evidence and comes to the conclusion that it began as a result of natural conditions of living together rather than a process of exploitation of the animal species A fascinating picture thus unfolds itself of man becoming associated with the dog long before agriculture began of his first experiments in herding goats and sheep of his realizing the advantages of animal husbandry and domestication and finally of planned domestication

Prehistoric Modernization Shengqian Chen, 2025-02-28 This book explores the origins of agriculture in China and the transformation from hunter gatherer to agriculture producer Therefore it reveals the ancient genes of China as an agricultural country and digs into questions like what turning events occurred during the transformative period from hunting gathering to agricultural production and why the development of agriculture is rapid in some regions while largely delayed in others This book also introduces various definitions and theoretical methods on the study of agriculture s origin It represents the transforming era by simulating prehistoric hunter gatherer s survival strategies with data collected from modern weather station The author also tries to answer questions on the origins of agriculture production in China with comprehensive archeology evidences American Theories of Polygenesis: Natural history of the human species Robert Bernasconi,2002 Dietotherapy v. 1 William Edward Fitch,1918 The Origins of Human Diet and Medicine Timothy Johns,1996-01-01 People have always been attracted to foods rich in calories fat and protein yet the biblical admonition that meat be eaten with bitter herbs suggests that unpalatable plants play an important role in our diet So called primitive peoples show a surprisingly sophisticated understanding of how their bodies interact with plant chemicals which may allow us to rediscover the origins of diet by retracing the paths of biology and culture The domestication of the potato serves as the focus of Timothy Johns s interdisciplinary study which forges a bold synthesis of ethnobotany and chemical ecology The Aymara of highland Bolivia have long used varieties of potato containing potentially toxic levels of glycoalkaloids and Johns proposes that such plants can be eaten without harm owing to human genetic modification and cultural manipulation Drawing on additional fieldwork in Africa he considers the evolution of the human use of plants the ways in which humans obtain foods from among the myriad poisonous and unpalatable plants in the environment and the consequences of this history for understanding the basis of the human diet A natural corollary to his investigation is the origin of medicine since the properties of plants that make them unpalatable and toxic are the same properties that make them useful pharmacologically As our species has adapted to the use of plants plants have become an essential part of our internal ecology Recovering the ancient wisdom regarding our interaction with the environment preserves a fundamental part of our human heritage The Human Species Considered from the Standpoints of Comparative Anatomy, Physiology, Pathology and Bacteriology Ludwig Hopf,1909 A Study of the Degeneracy of the Jaws of the Human Race Eugene Solomon Talbot,1892 An Introduction to the History of Religion Frank Byron Jevons,1896 Dietotherapy William Edward Fitch,1918 Evolutionary Theory & Review ,1991 Cotton C. Wayne Smith,J.
