Department of Printed Books, 1908 The Author's Hand and the Printer's Mind Roger Chartier, 2013-11-18 In Early Modern Europe the first readers of a book were not those who bought it They were the scribes who copied the author's or translator's manuscript the censors who licensed it the publisher who decided to put this title in his catalogue the copy editor who prepared the text for the press divided it and added punctuation the typesetters who composed the pages of the book and the proof reader who corrected them The author's hand cannot be separated from the printer's mind This book is devoted to the process of publication of the works that framed their readers' representations of the past or of the world Linking cultural history textual criticism and bibliographical studies dealing with canonical works like Cervantes Don Quixote or Shakespeare's plays as well as lesser known texts Roger Chartier identifies the fundamental discontinuities that transformed the circulation of the written word between the invention of printing and the definition three centuries later of what we call literature Catalogue of the Spanish library and of the Portuguese books bequeathed by George meaning The twelve contributors to this collection go beyond traditional lines of inquiry into word and image interaction to deconstruct visual dynamics and politics to show how images were shaped manipulated displayed and distributed to represent the material world to propagate official and commercial messages to support religious practice and ideology or to embody relations of power These chapters are anchored in various theoretical and disciplinary points of departure such as the history of collections and collecting literary theory and criticism the histories of science art history and visual culture word and image studies as well as print culture and book illustration Authors draw upon a wide range of visual material hitherto insufficiently explored and placed in context in some cases hidden in museums and archives or previously assessed only from a disciplinary standpoint that favored either the image or the text but not both in relation to each other They include manuscript illuminations representing compilers and collections frontispieces and other accompanying plates published in catalogues and museographies astronomical diagrams mixed pictographic alphabetic accounting documents Spanish baroque paintings illustrative frontispieces or series inspired by or designed for single novels or anthologies anatomical drawings featured in encyclopedic publications visual patterns of volcanic formations engravings representing the New World that accompany non fictional travelogues commonplace books that interlace text and images and graphic satire Geographically the collection covers imperial centers Great Britain France the Netherlands and Spain as well as their colonial periphery New France Mexico Central America South America in particular Brazil parts of Africa and the island of Ceylon Emblematic and thought provoking these images are only fragments of the multifaceted and comprehensive visual mosaic created during the early modern period but their consideration has far reaching implications Don Quixote Miguel de Cervantes Saavedra,1914 Bulletin of the New York Public Library New York Public Library,1899 Includes its Report 1896 19 Book-prices Current John Herbert Slater,William Roberta,F.
