focuses on the materiality of data infrastructure in space As our everyday lives become increasingly entangled with data technologies the book addresses the utopian fantasy that surrounds the Cloud as transcending physical presence or resourcing By bringing the physical infrastructure around data and its impact on the environment under the spotlight it hopes to reframe how we understand data production and highlight the myth that information technologies are hidden and without major material manifestations on the landscape The context for the book is Ireland which has a significant historical role in the evolution of global communications and data infrastructure In 1866 the world's first transatlantic telegraph cable landed on the West coast of Ireland In 1901 the inventor of the radio Guglielmo Marconi transmitted some of the world's first wireless radio messages from Ireland across the Atlantic Ocean to Newfoundland Today Dublin has overtaken London as the data centre hub of Europe hosting 25% of all available European server space And by the year 2027 data centres are forecast to consume a third of Ireland's total electricity demand The book aims to raise awareness around the hardware of the global internet and Cloud services which is interwoven with the Irish landscape made manifest through the vast constellation of data centres fibre optic cable networks and energy grids that have come to populate its cities and suburbs over recent decades The publication accompanies and supports Entanglement the Irish Pavilion at the 17th Venice Architecture Biennale by archiving the production of the pavilion filtered through a series of poetic excerpts that describe the form components content and furniture that make up the installation At the same time the book is conceived as more than just a catalog by positioning some of the cultural and spatial implications of data technologies in Ireland within a more universal context through contributions by ANNEX the team selected to produce the pavilion as well as invited contributors from the disciplines of Media Theory Journalism Computer Science Geography History and Architecture
