Decentralization Of Russias Nuclear Complex:

Preventing Nuclear Meltdown James Clay Moltz, Vladimir A. Orlov, Adam N. Stulberg, 2017-07-05 The decline in central financing for Russia's nuclear complex and the known interest of terrorist groups in acquiring fissile material and technologies has made the state of Russia's far flung nuclear enterprises a pressing international issue In this important volume a group of leading US and Russian policy experts drawing on extensive interviews with officials facility personnel and analysts in Russia's regions explores the intersecting problems of Russian nuclear insecurity and decentralization including the growing influence of regional political and economic forces The work presents insights into both nuclear safety issues and post Soviet intra agency governance as well as detailed case studies of critical nuclear regions the Far East the Urals Siberia and the Volga area The volume also offers major new findings on the interface linking Russia's evolving center periphery relations its ailing nuclear facilities and the role played by foreign assistance providers The Routledge Handbook of Terrorism Research Alex Peter Schmid, 2011 This volume is a monumental collection of definitions conceptual frameworks paradigmatic formulations and bibliographic sources which is now being revised and updated as a resource for the expanding community of researchers on the subject of terrorism Russian Nuclear Weapons Stephen Blank, 2011 This book presents several essays analyzing Russia's extensive nuclear agenda and the issues connected with it It deals with strategy doctrine European Eurasian and East Asian security agendas as well as the central U S Russia nuclear and arms control equations This work brings together American European and Russian analysts to discuss Russia's defense and conventional forces reforms and their impact on nuclear forces doctrine strategy and the critical issues of Russian security policies toward the United States Europe and China It also deals directly with the present and future roles of nuclear weapons in Russian defense policy and strategy Revitalising US-Russian Security Cooperation Richard Weitz, 2020-11-25 Russia and the United States are the most important countries for many vital security issues They possess the world's largest nuclear weapons arsenals are involved in the principal regional conflicts and have lead roles in opposing international terrorism and weapons proliferation Despite persistent differences on many questions mutual interests consistently drive Russians and Americans to work together to overcome these impediments This Adelphi paper argues that opportunities for improving further security cooperation between Russia and the United States exist but are limited Near term results in the areas of formal arms control or ballistic missile defences are unlikely The two governments should focus on improving and expanding their joint threat reduction and nonproliferation programmes enhancing their military to military dialogue regarding Central Asia and defence industrial cooperation and deepening their antiterrorist cooperation both bilaterally and through NATO Using more market incentives expanding reciprocity and equal treatment and limiting the adverse repercussions from disputes over Iran would facilitate progress Russia and the United States will not soon become close allies but they should be able to achieve better security ties given that on most issues their shared interests outweigh those that divide them Making The Russian Bomb Thomas B. Cochran, 2019-04-15 The Natural Resources Defense Council once again provides the definitive account of the current status of Russian nuclear weapons Taking advantage of previously unavailable information the authors describe the origins growth and decline of the massive Soviet nuclear weapons production complex the places involved in the recent headline making episode The Search for WMD Dalhousie University. Centre for Foreign Policy Studies, 2006 This is the third volume of the Centre for Foreign Policy Studies highly acclaimed and well received issue and debate series addressing contemporary topics in security and defence studies Twenty five scholars and policy makers respond to Michael Friend's intriguing article about the search for WMD in Iraq Even prior to the 2nd Iraqi war non proliferation has been the foremost concern discussed throughout international diplomacy From the treaties we sign to control it to the intelligence we use to verify it to the pre-emptive actions we take to prevent it the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction has become the foremost threat to international peace and stability The contributors to this volume debate the merits of arms control treaties address the shortcomings and increased requirements of the intelligence community and address whether a viable international system can be founded upon a doctrine of pre-emptive war The result is an informative and policy relevant contribution to the foremost security issue of the new security environment Provided by publisher Energy Research Abstracts ,1986 Choice ,2005 The Challenge of Ethnic Conflict to National and International Order in the 1990s, Geographic Perspectives ,1995 Index to Legal Periodicals & Books ,2006
