Decision Making Cognitive Models And Explanations:

Decision Making Ray Crozier, Rob Ranyard, Ola Svenson, 2002-09-11 This book offers an exciting new collection of recent research on the actual processes that humans use when making decisions in their everyday lives and in business situations. The contributors use cognitive psychological techniques to break down the constituent processes and set them in their social context. The contributors are from many different countries and draw upon a wide range of techniques making this book a valuable resource to cognitive psychologists in applied settings, economists and managers. Decision Making: Social and Creative Dimensions C.M. Allwood, Marcus Selart, 2001-04-30 This volume presents research that integrates decision making and creativity within the social contexts in which these processes occur. The volume is an essential addition to and expansion of recent approaches to decision making. Such approaches attempt to incorporate more of the psychological and socio-cultural context in which human decision making takes place. The authors come from different disciplines and also belong to a broad spectrum of research traditions. They present innovative chapters dealing with both theoretical and empirical aspects of decision making in different personal and organizational contexts. All chapters are written from the perspective that human decision making is inherently social and more or less creative. The volume addresses fundamental questions about the nature of human decision making as it occurs in different social contexts. Thereby it becomes essential reading for researchers in decision making and for advanced students in psychology, management science, informatics and related disciplines. Decision Behaviour, Analysis and Support Simon French, John Maule, Nadia Papamichail, 2009-07-30 A multi-disciplinary exploration of how we can help decision makers to deliberate and make better decisions. Naturalistic Decision Making and Macrocognition Jan Maarten Schraagen, 2008 This book presents the latest work in the area of naturalistic decision making (NDM) and its extension into the area of macrocognition. It contains 18 chapters relating research centred on the study of expertise in naturalistic settings written by international experts in NDM and cognitive systems engineering. The objective of the book is to present the reader with exciting new developments in this field of research which is characterized by its application-oriented focus. The work addresses only real-world problems and issues. For instance, how do multi-national teams collaborate effectively? How can surgeons best be supported by technology? The traditional field of NDM is extended in this work by focusing on macrocognitive functions other than decision making, namely sense making, coordination and planning. This has broadened the scope of the field. The book also contains a theoretical discussion of the macro-micro distinction. Naturalistic Decision Making and Macrocognition will be relevant to graduate students, researchers and professionals including professionals and researchers in business industry and government who are interested in decision making, expertise, training methods and system design. Pro-social and Anti-social Behaviour David
