Dreaming The Self New Perspectives On:

Dreaming and the Self Jeannette Marie Mageo, 2012-02-01 Drawing upon original fieldwork cultural theory and psychological research Dreaming and the Self offers new approaches to the self particularly to subjectivity identity and emotion Through an investigation of dreams in various cultures the contributors explore how people as subjects actually experience cultural life how they forge identities out of their cultural and historical experiences how the cultural and historical worlds in which they live shape even their bodily habits and responses and how the person as agent responds to and imaginatively recreates his or her culture These essays demonstrate that dreams reflect tellingly on topics of great currency in anthropology such as how people personally manage postcolonialism transnationalism and migration Actual dreams are examined including dreams of Samoan young people about race of a Haitian priestess about vodou deities of a Pakistani about spiritual teachers of psychoanalytic clients in Los Angeles and San Diego about cars witches and sex and of a young Balinese mother about a neglected dog

Dreaming and the Imagination Matthew D. Newsom, 2025-04-01 Of all the human behaviors anthropologists consider perhaps the most conceptually challenging are those that cannot be directly observed This volume draws from rich ethnographic data to offer theoretical and methodological tools for mapping the intersections between two such behaviors dreaming and imagination Although Western perspectives tend to cast these as personal experiences contained within individual minds each contributor explores diverse cultural and historical contexts to demonstrate how these behaviours are always in some sense cultural and influenced by social others The cross cultural approach suggests theoretical flexibility and expands the study of imagination across multiple disciplines

A Companion to Psychological Anthropology Conerly Casey, Robert B. Edgerton, 2008-04-15 This Companion provides the first definitive overview of psychocultural anthropology a subject that focuses on cultural psychological and social interrelations across cultures Brings together original essays by leading scholars in the field Offers an in depth exploration of the concepts and topics that have emerged through contemporary ethnographic work and the processes of global change Key issues range from studies of consciousness and time emotion cognition dreaming and memory to the lingering effects of racism and ethnocentrism violence identity and subjectivity

Dreaming Jennifer M. Windt, 2015-06-05 A comprehensive proposal for a conceptual framework for describing conscious experience in dreams integrating philosophy of mind sleep and dream research and interdisciplinary consciousness studies Dreams conceived as conscious experience or phenomenal states during sleep offer an important contrast condition for theories of consciousness and the self Yet although there is a wealth of empirical research on sleep and dreaming its potential contribution to consciousness research and philosophy of mind is largely overlooked This might be due in part to a lack of conceptual clarity and an underlying disagreement about the nature of the phenomenon of dreaming itself In Dreaming Jennifer Windt lays the groundwork for solving this problem She develops a conceptual framework describing not only what it means to say that dreams are conscious experiences but also how to locate dreams relative to such concepts as perception hallucination and imagination as well as thinking knowledge belief deception and self consciousness Arguing that a conceptual framework must be not only conceptually sound but also phenomenologically plausible and carefully informed by neuroscientific research Windt integrates her review of philosophical work on dreaming both historical and contemporary with a survey of the most important empirical findings This allows her to work toward a systematic and comprehensive new theoretical understanding of dreaming informed by a critical reading of contemporary research findings Windt s account demonstrates that a philosophical analysis of the concept of dreaming can provide an important enrichment and extension to the conceptual repertoire of discussions of consciousness and the self and raises new questions for future research

Sense of Agency: Examining Awareness of the Acting Self Nicole David, James W Moore, Sukhvinder Obhi, 2015-07-24 The sense of agency is defined as the sense of oneself as the agent of one s own actions This also allows oneself to feel distinct from others and contributes to the subjective phenomenon of self consciousness Gallagher 2000 Distinguishing oneself from others is arguably one of the most important functions of the human brain Even minor impairments in this ability profoundly affect the individual s functioning in society as demonstrated by psychiatric and neurological syndromes involving agency disturbances Della Sala et al 1991 Franck et al 2001 Frith 2005 Sirigu et al 1999 But the sense of agency also plays a role for cultural and religious phenomena such as voodoo superstition and gambling in which individuals experience subjective control over objectively uncontrollable entities Wegner 2003 Furthermore it plays into ethical and law questions concerning responsibility and guilt For these reasons a better understanding of the sense of agency has been important for neuroscientists clinicians philosophers of mind and the general society alike Significant progress has been made in this regard For example philosophical scrutiny has helped establish the conceptual boundaries of the sense of agency Bayne 2011 Gallagher 2000 2012 Pacherie 2008 Synofzik et al 2008 and scientific investigations have shed light on the neurocognitive basis of sense of agency including the brain regions supporting sense of agency Chambon et al 2013 David et al 2007 Farrer et al 2003 2008 Spengler et al 2009 Tsakiris et al 2010 Yomogida et al 2010 Despite this progress there remain a number of outstanding questions such as Are there cross cultural differences in the sense of agency How does the sense of agency develop in infants or change across the lifespan How does social context influence sense of agency What neural networks support sense of agency i e connectivity and communication between brain regions What are the temporal dynamics with respect to neural processes underlying the sense of agency i e the what and when of agency processing How can different cue models of the sense of agency be further specified and empirically supported especially with regards to cue integration weighting What are the applications of sense of agency research clinically engineering etc The concept of the sense of agency offers intriguing avenues for knowledge transfer across disciplines and interdisciplinary empirical approaches especially in addressing the afore mentioned outstanding questions The aim of the present research topic is to promote and facilitate such interdisciplinarity for a better understanding of why and how we typically experience our own actions so naturally and undoubtedly as ours and what goes awry when we do not We thus welcome contributions from for example i neuroscience and psychology including development psychology neuroscience ii psychiatry and neurology iii philosophy iv robotics and v computational modeling In addition to empirical or scientific studies of the sense of agency we also encourage theoretical contributions including reviews models and opinions

Margaret Laurence Greta M. Coger, 1996-05-30 Nearly all of Laurence's works from Africa and Canada are critiqued in this volume. The essays highlight Laurence's innovative narrative styles showing how her combinations of oral literary forms and unique shifts in tense and point of view help her achieve vivid character portrayals. In addition, viewing Laurence's prose as closely textured poetry, her use of language, theme, and image are carefully critiqued. The importance of Laurence's portrayal of women's experiences, most notably that of aging women, is viewed in a feminist framework. These new American perspectives on Laurence will be of interest to both scholars and students.

for Everyone: A New Perspective on Inclusion Elizabeth A. Hebert, 1997-05-29 Issues of inclusion are firmly embedded in the lives of schools. School leaders dwell in a cacophony of particular interests and competing concerns, and they overhear many conversations in the schools and community that present complex challenges on these issues. Their thoughtful listening is required to transform these conversations into effective practice. But what does it mean to aim for inclusiveness in all aspects of education? What are the characteristics of inclusiveness? Who are we including? Who are we who presume to include? This sourcebook addresses these questions and concerns and provides important food for thought and tools for increasing understanding on this timely topic. This is the 3rd issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for School Leadership. For more information on the series, please see the Journals and Periodicals page.
