Doing Time On Planet Earth:

Doing Time for Peace Rosalie G. Riegle, 2013-01-07 In this compelling collection of oral histories more than seventy five peacemakers describe how they say no to war making in the strongest way possible by engaging in civil disobedience and paying the consequences in jail or prison These courageous resisters leave family and community and life on the outside in their efforts to direct U S policy away from its militarism Many are Catholic Workers devoting their lives to the works of mercy instead of the works of war They are homemakers and carpenters and social workers and teachers who are often called faith based activists They speak from the left of the political perspective providing a counterpoint to the faith based activism of the fundamentalist Right In their own words the narrators describe their motivations and their preparations for acts of resistance the actions themselves and their trials and subsequent jail time We hear from those who do their time by caring for their families and managing communities while their partners are imprisoned Spouses and children talk frankly of the strains on family ties that a life of working for peace in the world can cause The voices range from a World War II conscientious objector to those protesting the recent war in Iraq The book includes sections on resister families the Berrigans and Jonah House the Plowshares Communities the Syracuse Peace Council and Catholic Worker houses and communities The introduction by Dan McKanan situates these activists in the long tradition of resistance to war and witness to peace Doin' Time on Planet Earth Darren Star, 1988

Making Time on Mars Zara Mirmalek, 2020-04-07 An examination of how the daily work of NASA's Mars Exploration Rovers was organized across three sites on two planets using local Mars time In 2004 mission scientists and engineers working with NASA's Mars Exploration Rovers MER remotely operated two robots at different sites on Mars for ninety consecutive days An unusual feature of this successful mission was that it operated on Mars time the daily work was organized across three sites on two planets according to two Martian time zones In Making Time on Mars Zara Mirmalek shows that this involved more than a resetting of wristwatches the team's struggle to synchronize with Mars time involved technological and communication breakdowns informal workarounds and extra work to support the technology that was intended to support people Her account of how NASA created an entirely new temporality for the MER mission offers insights about the assumptions behind the organizational relationship between clock time and work Mirmalek herself a member of the mission team offers an insider's view of the MER workplace and community She describes the discord among MER's multiple temporalities and examines issues of professional identity that helped shape the experience of working according to Mars time Considering time and work relationships through a multidisciplinary lens Mirmalek shows how contemporary and historical human technology relationships inform assumptions about the unalterability of clock time She argues that the organizational connection between clock time and work although still operational is outdated The Factory Owner & the Convict Glenn C., 2005-03 William E Correll Life Treatment Center This book describes the way alcoholics actually think better than anything I have ever read The world of the good old timers of the early Alcoholics Anonymous movement comes alive in this book. It tells the interlocking stories of seven people from diverse backgrounds: men, women, black, white, wealthy, poor, who lived and taught the A.A. program with such clarity and spiritual depth that people came from miles away to sit at their feet and be taught by them. This account was originally written for the local intergroups to tell how A.A. began during the 1940s and 50s in the cities and towns along the St. Joseph river as it wound its way through Indiana and Michigan to empty into the Great Lakes. But then all across the country, people struggling with alcoholism and addiction began asking for copies, and psychotherapists and counselors too. It spoke to the heart; they said it made the twelve-step program come alive and showed how it really worked. And above all, they reported, they had found that the words of these men and women were filled with a kind of spiritual wisdom and deep compassion which had the power to heal the soul. So this new edition of The Factory Owner, the Convict, has now been prepared with the last half now printed as a separate volume entitled The St. Louis Gambler, the Railroad Man. Making Time Carolin Gebauer, 2021-04-19

2023 Perkins Prize of the International Society for the Study of Narrative ESSE Book Award for Junior Scholars for a book in the field of Literatures in the English Language. Responding to the current surge in present tense novels, Making Time is an innovative contribution to narratological research on present tense usage in narrative fiction. Breaking with the tradition of conceptualizing the present tense purely as a deictic category denoting synchronicity between a narrative event and its presentation, the study redefines present tense narration as a fully fledged narrative strategy whose functional potential far exceeds temporal relations between story and discourse. The first part of the volume presents numerous analytical categories that systematically describe the formal, structural, functional, and syntactic dimensions of present tense usage in narrative fiction. These categories are then deployed to investigate the uses and functions of present tense narration in selected twenty-first century novels, including Hilary Mantel's Wolf Hall, Margaret Atwood's Oryx, and Ian McEwan's Nutshell and Irvine Welsh's Skagboys. The seven case studies serve to illustrate the ubiquity of present tense narration in contemporary fiction, ranging from the historical novel to the thriller, and to investigate the various ways in which the present tense contributes to narrative worldmaking. Coming Home to Earth Mark S. Bocker, 2016-09-13

As a young Norwegian Lutheran teenager in rural Wisconsin, Bocker lay awake one night worrying whether he believed in Jesus enough to get to heaven. This getting to heaven anxiety reflected an excessive focus on individual salvation and a loss of concern for the well-being of the Earth community. A faith journey that leaves Earth behind is misguided. Ever since those early teen years, Bocker has been on a journey to come home to Earth. Coming Home to Earth makes the case that there is no salvation apart from Earth, and that Earth care is at the core of our identity and mission as followers of Jesus. The ecological consequences of a loss of concern for the well-being of Earth have been devastating. Bocker is especially concerned to determine what will motivate followers of Jesus to make radical changes in our way of life so that we can participate in the healing of wounded Earth and all of its inhabitants, both human and nonhuman. We are far more likely to make needed sacrifices for our fellow
