Dance with Me Julia A. Ericksen, 2011 Click here to listen to Julia Ericksen s interview about Dance with Me on Philadelphia NPR s Radio Times Rumba music starts and a floor full of dancers alternate clinging to one another and turning away Rumba is an erotic dance and the mood is hot and heavy the women bend and hyperextend their legs as they twist and turn around their partners Amateur and professional ballroom dancers alike compete in a highly gendered display of intimacy romance and sexual passion In Dance With Me Julia Ericksen a competitive ballroom dancer herself takes the reader onto the competition floor and into the lights and the glamour of a world of tanned bodies and glittering attire exploring the allure of this hyper competitive difficult and often expensive activity In a vivid ethnography accompanied by beautiful photographs of all levels of dancers from the world s top competitors to social dancers Ericksen examines the ways emotional labor is used to create intimacy between professional partners and between professionals and their students illustrating how dancers purchase intimacy She shows that while at first glance ballroom presents a highly gendered face with men leading and women following dancing also transgresses gender

Digital Ethnography Sarah Pink, Heather Horst, John Postill, Larissa Hjorth, Tania Lewis, Jo Tacchi, 2015-10-09 This sharp innovative book champions the rising significance of ethnographic research on the use of digital resources around the world It contextualises digital and pre digital ethnographic research and demonstrates how the methodological practical and theoretical dimensions are increasingly intertwined Digital ethnography is central to our understanding of the social world it can shape methodology and methods and provides the technological tools needed to research society The authoritative team of authors clearly set out how to research localities objects and events as well as providing insights into exploring individuals or communities lived experiences practices and relationships The book Defines a series of central concepts in this new branch of social and cultural research Challenges existing conceptual and analytical categories Showcases new and innovative methods Theorises the digital world in new ways Encourages us to rethink pre digital practices media and environments This is the ideal introduction for anyone intending to conduct ethnographic research in today s digital society Seeing South Asia Dev Nath Pathak,Biswajit Das,Ratan Kumar Roy,2022-04-11 This book critically examines the cultural politics of visuals in South Asia It makes a key contribution to the study of visuals in the social sciences in South Asia by studying the interplay of the seen and unseen and the visual and nonvisual The volume explores interrelated themes including the vernacular visual and visibility ways of seeing in South Asia and the methodology of hermeneutic sensorium anxiety and politics of the visuals across the region and the trajectory of visual anthropology significance of visual symbols and representations in contemporary performances and folk art visual landscapes of loss and recovery and representation of refugees visual public in South Asia and making of visuals for contemporary consumptions The chapters unravel the concepts of visual visibility visibility while attending to determinant meta ideas such as memory and modernity trajectories of tradition fluidity and hybridity and visual performative politics Based on interdisciplinary resources the chapters in this volume present a wide array of empirical findings across India Pakistan Sri Lanka Nepal and Bangladesh along with analytical readings of the visual culture of the subcontinent across borders The book will be useful to scholars and researchers of visual and cultural studies social and cultural anthropology sociology political studies media and communications studies performance studies art history television and film studies photography studies and South Asian studies It will also interest practitioners including artists visual artists photographers filmmakers and media critics Visual Ethnography Dawn Mannay,Janet Fink,Helen Lomax,2020 Visual ethnography refers to the study of the social world where drawing photography film and digital techniques are commonly used to record aspects of everyday life alongside the interrogation of visual culture This entry provides a background to the field of visual ethnography and reflects on both its historical applications across different disciplines and its contemporary uses as an approach to social research methods The entry asks How do researchers collect and generate visual data In answering this question it focuses on how researchers do a visual ethnographic study setting out different approaches to and techniques of creating visual data including assemblages of photographs collections of artefacts and the participatory techniques of film mapping and collage The second question How do researchers analyse visual materials leads to a discussion of how researchers come to know the visual artefact itself and the social contexts in which images are made and viewed offering visual ethnographers new opportunities to understand social practices and relationships as they are articulated through the visual. Lastly the entry turns to issues of dissemination and attends to the challenge: How do researchers negotiate ethics, visibility and representation? In response a number of approaches are presented as ways to ethically present and re-represent visual data to engage audiences and generate impact. The entry notes that visual ethnography has much to offer the field of social research but that it is important that researchers continue to work on developing its methodological, analytical and ethical agendas for the future. The entry provides a foundation for gaining an understanding of visual ethnography and a basis for engaging with this project of development offering strategies for negotiating best practice in fieldwork analysis and visual audiencing. Visual Sociology Diana Papademas, 2002. Ethnologia Europaea Journal of European Ethnology Tom O'Dell, Robert Willim, 2012-03-26. Ethnography has become something of a buzzword in recent years. It is talked about and invoked in disciplines ranging from anthropology and ethnology to literature history, business administration and design studies. Textbooks that teach ethnography tend to imbue students with the impression that ethnography is a mode of systematic investigation by which the researcher gets closer to the realities of people's everyday lives. But how straightforward are these processes in reality? As ethnography spreads into new folds of research both within and without the academy the contributions in this volume demonstrate the manner in which field methods are adjusting, transforming or taking new forms altogether. If textbooks might lead students to believe that observations and interviews are the grounds upon which good ethnography can regularly be produced, the authors in this volume take as their point of departure the realisation that ethnography is being used in a multitude of different contexts which forces them and us as readers to question the regularities and irregularities of their own work. Mobile Methodologies Benjamin Fincham, Mark McGuinness, Lesley Murray, 2010-01-15. How do we research and represent mobile experiences of being in place momentarily of passing through? This book explores the movement of bodies through space examining perceived limitations and considering methodological responses, technologies and strategies designed to inform our understanding of people's experience of movement through space.
