Dublin Stories:

The Springs of Affection Maeve Brennan, 2009-03-10 The twenty one stories collected here the very best stories of one of The New Yorker's most celebrated writers trace the patterns of love within three Dublin families Love between husband and wife which begins in courtship and laughter loses all power of expression and then vanishes forever The natural love of sister for brother and of mother for son is twisted into the rage to possess And love that gives rise to the rituals of family life those ordinary customs that are the only true realities most of us ever know grows solid as rock that will never give way In his introduction William Maxwell who was for twenty years Maeve Brennan's editor writes of the special quality of her work and especially of the title story which he places among the great short fiction of the twentieth century Dublin Tales

Helen Constantine, 2023-10-24 Dublin is one of the world's great literary cities immortalized in works by some of the most celebrated international authors It is a city of warmth and character which combines the richest of histories with a vibrant contemporary edge and which welcomes millions of people to its streets each year In addition to being Ireland's capital city Dublin is a city with a proud European identity and with long established dynamic links with the rest of the world Dublin Tales comprises an exciting selection of stories from across the twentieth and early twenty first centuries which are illustrative of this The stories in Dublin Tales are variously vibrant evocative humorous and diverse and engage in different ways with Dublin's history its culture its cityscape and its people It includes stories by writers who are intimately associated with the city James Joyce and Brendan Behan as well as by some of the most acclaimed Irish authors of the twentieth century Elizabeth Bowen Liam O'Flaherty William Trevor John McGahern and his N Dhuibhne Less familiar authors are also included as are specially commissioned stories from some of the most talented younger writers writing today Caitriona Lally Kevin Power and Melatu Uche Okorie Dublin Tales also includes bilingual versions of two stories which were originally written in the Irish language by Dara Conaola and Caitlín Nic omhair which have been specially translated into English for this startlingly original new book Dublin Stories, 1996 The House on Parkgate Street and Other Dublin Stories

Christine Dwyer Hickey, 2013 As a child she had believed the racecourse was in a different country So begins this collection of stories from one of Ireland's master storytellers and appropriately because the collection takes one to many different worlds and shows us Dublin as seen through many different eyes and protagonists of all ages from young to old and in between Irish Women Writers and the Modern Short Story Elke D'hoker, 2016-07-28 This book traces the development of the modern short story in the hands of Irish women writers from the 1890s to the present George Egerton Somerville and Ross Elizabeth Bowen Mary Lavin Edna O'Brien Anne Enright and Claire Keegan are only some of the many Irish women writers who have made lasting contributions to the genre of the modern short story yet their achievements have often been marginalized in literary histories which typically define the Irish short story in terms of its oral heritage nationalist concerns rural realism and outsider hero Through a detailed investigation of the short fiction of fifteen prominent writers this study aims to open up this critical conceptualization of the Irish short story to the formal properties and thematic concerns women writers bring to the genre What stands out in thematic terms is an abiding interest in human relations whether of love the family or the larger community In formal terms this book traces the overall development of the Irish short story highlighting both the lines of influence that connect these writers and the specific use each individual author makes of the short story form

Maeve Brennan Edward O'Rourke,2024-10-30 This book explores the intricate interplay between physical spaces and psychological landscapes in the works of Irish American author Maeve Brennan Brennan's writing is now classed amongst the most important of twentieth century Irish women's fiction having undergone a significant reclamation and reappraisal in the 30 years since her death Single and childfree for most of her life Brennan eschewed the securities of family and home experiencing an otherness that she shared with her fellow New Yorkers many of them left she wrote hanging on to a city half capsized most of them still able to laugh as they cling to the island that is their life's predicament It is a suitably ambiguous expression for a writer who cultivated an interstitial existence whose stories inhere within a dream cycle of reiterative pasts and whose works augment and elevate the canon of radical Irish fiction

Anthologisation and Irish Short Fiction Paul Delaney,2025-03-28 This original new study explores the recent flowering of short fiction in Ireland analysing the production dissemination and reception of the short form in the twenty first century and reading contemporary short stories in their many configurations and guises This volume covers twenty five years of Irish writing beginning in late 1997 with the establishment of the innovative literary periodical The Stinging Fly and concludes in 2022 The book is structured in five parts with each part focusing on a particular mode of publication periodicals single author volumes short story cycles edited anthologies and small or independent presses Each part includes a series of case studies while also engaging with a diverse range of short story criticism and theory both comparative and Irish centered Anthologisation and Irish Short Fiction brings different writers at distinct stages of their careers into conversation and This volume aims to illuminate the contemporaneous value of this body of work its innovative and varied use and the diversity of its practice Particular attention is also shown to the fluidity of the short form to its capacity to disrupt and arrest and to its progressive writerly potential

Dublin Folk Tales for Children Órla Mc Govern,2018-02-08 Do you know what the tiny spoon was used for What was hiding up Mrs O Flaherty's chimney How did the fairy man help the tailor's apprentice Who was the little flower of Castleknock Castle What looks just like the skin of a rainbow You'll find all the answers and loads more useful stuff inside this book Dublin Folk Tales for Children is full of imagination with stories specially selected for the enjoyment of 7 to 11 year old readers These tales are reshaped and created by writer and storyteller Órla Mc Govern and illustrated by Gala Tomasso They are made to be read told and passed on Inside you'll find tales like Filou Filou Gwan Oura Dat and The Two Trees and each dances off the page with magic and adventure

James Joyce's Early Works in Ireland's Textual Cultures Niels Caul,2025-10-16 Putting Joyce back into dialogue with other Irish writers of his generation this book shows that his experiments with narrative styles and structures were a renegotiation rather than a rejection of earlier Irish conventions While Joyce is undoubtedly the best known other Irish writers were also influenced by European movements in naturalism and decadence that were shaping European Modernism as it emerged in the 1890s Reading Joyce's works in the context of often forgotten contemporaries such as George Moore George Egerton Hannah Lynch Shan Bullock Forrest Reid and Charlotte O'Connor Eccles enhances our understanding of their works as well as Joyce's both thematically and stylistically and shines a much needed light on previously critically underexamined writers By focusing on the transformation of Joyce from Irish writer to Modernist artist we gain crucial insights into why many of Joyce's contemporaries are not read today despite their initial popularity This book utilises Joyce's troubled publication and reception history to identify the wider trends of the Irish short story cycle and Bildungsroman thereby enhancing readers understanding of the literary marketplace for Irish books in this period

The New Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature: Volume 4, 1900-1950 George Watson, I. R. Willison, 1972-12-07 More than fifty specialists have contributed to this new edition of volume 4 of The Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature The design of the original work has established itself so firmly as a workable solution to the immense problems of analysis articulation and coordination that it has been retained in all its essentials for the new edition The task of the new contributors has been to revise and integrate the lists of 1940 and 1957 to add materials of the following decade to correct and refine the bibliographical details already available and to re shape the whole according to a new series of conventions devised to give greater clarity and consistency to the entries

The News from Dublin Colm Tóibín, 2026-03-31 From Colm Tóibín one of the world's best living literary writers The Boston Globe comes a brilliant collection of eleven short stories many never before published set across Ireland Spain and America about the complexities of family longing loss and love Celebrated as his generation's most gifted writer of love's complicated contradictory power Los Angeles Times Colm Tóibín is a master of short fiction as well as the novel able to summon an extraordinary intensity of emotion in a brief tale The eleven stories transport readers across continents and eras In The Journey to Galway a mother who has learned of the death of her son a fighter pilot in WWII travels to Galway to inform his wife and their three now fatherless children Sleep originally published in The New Yorker explores the rift between two lovers as one of them cannot reckon with his grief and fear after the death of his brother Death again is a central character in the title story The News from Dublin as Maurice Webster travels to Dublin to try to save his younger brother who is dying of tuberculosis Maurice must petition the health minister for access to a new experimental drug and this is the only hope Tóibín's stories are rich with the complexities of family dynamics the haunting pull of the past and the quiet revelations that define our lives His characters whether navigating the aftermath of war or forbidden love or the desires of a girl in Catalan or the quiet struggles mundane life are rendered with illuminating unforgettable empathy and insight The News from Dublin is an exquisite introduction to Tóibín's short fiction for new readers who may have discovered Tóibín with the publication of Long Island and a glorious new collection for longtime fans of this achingly beautiful writer with infinite compassion The Miami Herald

Dubliners James Joyce, 2018-08-09 Although James Joyce began these stories of Dublin life in 1904 when he was 22 and had completed them by the end of 1907 they remained unpublished until 1914 victims of Edwardian squeamishness Their vivid tightly focused observations of the life of Dublin's poorer classes their unconventional themes coarse language and mention of actual people and places made publishers of the day reluctant to undertake sponsorship Today however the stories are admired for their intense and masterly dissection of dear dirty Dublin and for the economy and grace with which Joyce invested this youthful fiction From The Sisters the first story illuminating a young boy's initial encounter with death through the final piece The Dead considered a masterpiece of the form these tales represent as Joyce himself explained a chapter in the moral history of Ireland that would give the Irish one good look at themselves But in the end the stories are not just about the Irish they represent moments of revelation common to all people Index to Short Stories Ina Ten Eyck Firkins, 1923 Dubliners James Joyce, 2017-01-30 Dubliners is a collection of fifteen short stories by James Joyce first published in 1914 They form a naturalistic depiction of Irish middle class life in and around Dublin in the early years of the 20th century The stories were written when Irish nationalism was at its peak and a search for a national identity and purpose was raging at a crossroads of history and culture Ireland was jolted by various converging ideas and influences They centre on Joyce's idea of an epiphany a moment where a character experiences a life changing self understanding or illumination Many of the characters in Dubliners later appear in minor roles in Joyce's novel Ulysses The initial stories in the collection are narrated by child protagonists and as the stories continue they deal with the lives and concerns of progressively older people This is in line with Joyce's tripartite division of the collection into childhood adolescence and maturity The Life of William Carleton William Carleton, David James O'Donoghue, 1896 The Field Day Anthology of Irish Writing Seamus Deane, Andrew Carpenter, Angela Bourke, Jonathan Williams, 1991 The life of William Carleton, his autobiography and letters, and an account of his life and writings by D.J. O'Donoghue William Carleton, 1896 James Joyce A to Z A. Nicholas Fargnoli, Michael Patrick Gillespie, 1996 series copy These encyclopedic companions are browsable invaluable individual guides to authors and their works Useful for students but written with the general reader in mind they are clear concise accessible and supply the basic cultural historical biographical and critical information so crucial to an appreciation and enjoyment of the primary works Each is arranged in an A Z fashion and presents and explains the terms people places and concepts encountered in the literary worlds of James Joyce Mark Twain and Virginia Woolf As a keen explorer of the mundane material of everyday life James Joyce ranks high in the canon of modernist writers He is arguably the most influential writer of the twentieth century and may be the most read studied and taught of all modern writers The James Joyce A Z is the ideal companion to Joyce's life and work Over 800 concise entries relating to all aspects of Joyce are gathered here in one easy to use volume of impressive scope Dublin's Fighting Story, 1916-21 The Kerryman, 2009 The
