Dublin Niall McCullough, 2014-10-12 Although one of Europe's largest cities in the 18th century Dublin has never been harvested for its potential contribution to the history of European urbanism This book is about its physical structure an analysis of the underlying skeleton that may release an understanding of its urban and architectural tradition It is an exploration of the city plan over time how early delineations and marks of movement of ownership become layered tissues of meaning part geography part intent a constant struggle for rational expression against conflicting aspirations that can be clearly read The greatest expression of this palimpsest remains the Georgian city plan which can be understood as a series of semi autonomous classical fragments adjusted to an underlying medieval and geographical structure Dublin Niall McCullough, 1989 Urban Spaces in Nineteenth-Century Ireland Georgina Laragy, Olwen Purdue, Jonathan Jeffrey Wright, 2018-11-15 Urban Spaces in Nineteenth Century Ireland is a wide ranging and innovative collection of essays which offers new insights on the Irish urban experience Adopting a spatial approach the essays presented in this collection move beyond study of events that happened and people who lived in the towns and cities of nineteenth century Ireland instead exploring the ways in which particular urban spaces were constructed and experienced Focusing on a range of urban spaces from individual streets and districts to schools asylums and entire cities they highlight both the multifaceted nature of the Irish urban experience and the potential of the spatial approach to the study of history List of contributors Olwen Purdue Jonathan Jeffrey Wright Laura Johnstone Matthew Potter Jonathan Jeffrey Wright Mary Hatfield Olwen Purdue Gillian Allmond Georgina Laragy Mary Jane Boland and Oliver Betts Urban History 19:2 Kajal Lahiri, Geoffrey H.
