

DUNKIRK

THE NECESSARY MYTH

The book cover features a stylized illustration. The top half has a yellow background with the title in red and black. Below this, a dark green and black silhouette depicts a group of soldiers in a trench, looking out over a dark, choppy sea under a yellow sky. The author's name is printed in white at the bottom.

Dunkirk The Necessary Myth:

Dunkirk: the Necessary Myth Nicholas Harman, 1980 Dunkirk Nicholas Harman, 1980 Reexamines the Battle of Dunkirk through interviews diaries and government documents and concludes it to be a defeat labelled as a victory by British propaganda in order to carry on the war Dunkirk Nicholas Harman, 1990-05 Myths and Legends of the Second World War James Hayward, 2009-09-23 The Second World War gave rise to a rich crop of legends many of which persist in the public consciousness today Some are well known such as the escape of an undead Hitler to South America Allied aircraft buzzed by Foo Fighters and UFOs German parachutists dressed as nuns and a failed German invasion of Suffolk in 1940 Others are more subtle such as the vaunted Dunkirk spirit which portrayed the disaster of 1940 as a victory and the conspiracy theories surrounding Rudolf Hess Did he fly to Scotland to negotiate a peace treaty with members of the Royal Family Was the aged prisoner who died in Spandau Prison a double From tales of betrayal at Dieppe and Arnhem to Hitler's obsession with the occult and Nazi U boat bases in Ireland James Hayward offers a refreshing and intriguing perspective on the myths legends and folk memories of the Second World War We Can Take It! Mark Connelly, 2014-07-10 We Can Take It shows that the British remember the war in a peculiar way thanks to a mix of particular images and evidence Our memory has been shaped by material which is completely removed from historical reality These images including complete inventions have combined to make a new history The vision is mostly cosy and suits the way in which the Britons conceive of themselves dogged good humoured occasionally bumbling unified and enjoying diversity In fact Britons load their memory towards the early part of the war Dunkirk Blitz Battle of Britain rather than when we were successful in the air or against Italy and Germany with invasions This suits our love of being the underdog fighting against the odds and being in a crisis Conversely the periods of the war during which Britain was in the ascendant are perversely far more hazy in the public memory On Nationality David Miller, 1995-10-06 Nationalism is a dominating force in contemporary politics but political philosophers have been markedly reluctant to discuss let alone endorse nationalist ideas In this book David Miller defends the principle of nationality He argues that national identities are valid sources of personal identity that we are justified in recognizing special obligations to our co nationals that nations have good grounds for wanting to be politically self determining but that recognizing the claims of nationality does not entail suppressing other sources of personal identity such as ethnicity Finally he considers the claim that national identities are dissolving in the late twentieth century This timely and provocative book offers the most compelling defence to date of nationality from a radical perspective Series description Oxford Political Theory presents the best new work in contemporary political theory It is intended to be broad in scope including original contributions to political philosophy and also work in applied political theory The series will contain works of outstanding quality with no restriction as to approach or subject matter British Cultural Memory and the Second World War Lucy Noakes, Juliette Pattinson, 2013-11-21 Few historical events have resonated as much in modern British culture as the Second World War It has left a rich legacy in a range of media that continue to attract a wide audience film TV and radio photography and the visual arts journalism and propaganda architecture museums music and literature The enduring presence of the war in the public world is echoed in its ongoing centrality in many personal and family memories with stories of the Second World War being recounted through the generations This collection brings together recent historical work on the cultural memory of the war examining its presence in family stories in popular and material culture and in acts of commemoration in Britain between 1945 and the present The British Press Temple, Mick, 2008-09-01 Mick Temple offers an introduction to the history theory politics and potential future of British newspapers Britain and France in Two World Wars Robert Tombs, Emile Chabal, 2013-07-18 France and Britain indispensable allies in two world wars remember and forget their shared history in contrasting ways The book examines key episodes in the relationship between the two countries including the outbreak of war in 1914 the battles of the Somme and Verdun the Fall of France in 1940 Dunkirk and British involvement in the French Resistance and the 1944 Liberation The contributors discuss how the two countries tend to forget what they owe to each other and have a distorted view of history which still colours and prejudices their relationship today despite government efforts to build a close political and military partnership The Listener , 1980 The Phony War, 1939-1940 Tom Shachtman, 1982 Hitler's Great Panzer Heist Anthony Tucker-Jones, 2007 The prowess of the German panzers is the stuff of legend but it is not generally known that Hitler stole thousands of British Czech French Italian Polish and Soviet tanks and armored fighting vehicles to feed his war machine At its height more than 25 percent of the German tank fleet was of foreign origin In this meticulously researched investigation Anthony Tucker Jones tells this hitherto unrecorded story describing how captured fighting vehicles were reused by the German military throughout World War II Last Stand at Le Paradis Richard Lane, 2009 In early September 1939 the 2nd Battalion Royal Norfolk Regiment were one of the first complete infantry units of the BEF to land in France The first months of World War Two were relatively quiet but after deploying to the Maginot Line sector during January 1940 they came into contact with those Germans manning the West Wall or Siegfried Line A patrol led by Captain Peter Barclay entered German territory and was attacked As a result the first decorations of the war were awarded Barclay received the Military Cross and Lance Corporal Davis the Military Medal while the remaining members of the patrol were mentioned in despatches Two days later the battalion suffered a tragic first when Lieutenant Patrick Everitt was mortally wounded while leading a daylight patrol Everitt was the first British officer to be killed in action in the Second World War When the Germans launched their offensive on 10 May the BEF advanced to the River Dyle in Belgium Within days the Allied Armies had been forced onto the back foot by the speed and ferocity of the German breakthrough The Norfolks withdrew to the River Escaut where the BEF was to make a stand On 21 May the Company Sergeant Major George Gristock courageously destroyed some German machine gun posts and won a posthumous Victoria Cross As the Allies withdrew towards the Channel the Norfolks were ordered to defend a section of the Canal Line between B thune and Le Cornet Malo Already down to around half strength the Norfolks held their sector from 24 to 27 May By the time the order was issued for them to withdraw it was too late Battalion HQ at Duries Farm Le Paradis was surrounded and they had no alternative but to surrender although C Company held out until the following morning After the surrender ninety nine men of the Battalion were marched to a paddock where they were machine gunned in cold blood by their SS captors Miraculously two men survived and were instrumental in bringing the SS officer responsible Fritz Knoechlien to justice after the war When the remnants of the battalion reassembled in England its strength was just five officers and 134 other ranks The remainder had either been killed or captured as POWs The Bookseller ,1981

The Battle of France and Flanders, 1940 Brian Bond,Michael Donald Taylor,2001 This collection of essays on the politics and fighting on land sea and in the air will be welcomed by academics and military history enthusiasts Topics covered include preparations of the BEF the failure of allied counter attacks and the air war The Spectator ,1981

British Strategy and Politics During the Phony War Nick Smart,2003-02-28 The so called Phony War from September 1939 to May 1940 occupies a peculiar yet distinct place in popular memory All the sensations of war except the fighting were present yet instead of massed air attacks and great land battles very little happened The British government was said to be complacent and the people downright bored Then France fell to German attack and the small British army was evacuated minus its equipment from Dunkirk Reaction to this major strategic catastrophe was naturally to blame the men deemed guilty for bringing the nation to the verge of humiliating defeat In sharp contrast to previous studies Smart argues that there was more to the phony war than governmental complacency that the period was more than a foolish or frivolous ante chamber to a later more heroic phase The extent to which the guilty men verdict on the first nine months of Britain s Second World War has stuck remains surprising The notion that the phony war was a necessary indeed over determined prelude to catastrophe has become cemented over time Examining the workings of the Anglo French leadership during this period Smart picks this thesis apart and argues that disaster was not necessarily still less inevitably just around the corner He concludes that Anglo French decision making during this time was basically sound that the soldiers were well equipped and in good heart and that there was no malaise eating away at the entente This study offers a challenging reappraisal of the phony war from a British perspective Book Review Digest ,1980 Host Bibliographic Record for Boundwith Item Barcode 30112078737878 and Others ,2013
