Dutch Romances:

Dutch Romances: Ferguut David Frame Johnson, Geert H. M. Claassens, 2000 First English translation of the Dutch version of the Old French Fergus with accompanying text Some time in the first quarter of the thirteenth century Guillaume le clerc composed the story of Fergus the homo silvaticus who develops into a formidable knight he was playing a literary game with Chr tien de Troyes especially with his Conte du Graal and he created a romance in which the main character features as a new Perceval in a realistically depicted Scottish landscape Shortly thereafter perhaps as early as 1250 the story was translated into Middle Dutch The Ferguut however is an adaptation of the Old French Fergus rather than a slavish translation although the translator followed his Old French original fairly faithfully for the first part thereafter the poet and most likely a second author continued his work from memory and clearly without the Old French version to hand The result is a romance which possesses all the appeal of the Old French Fergus but at the same time reveals something of the Middle Dutch romancer s tastes and techniques This volume offers the first ever English translation facing a new edition of the text and will thus bring this important work to a wider audience it is accompanied by an introduction variants and rejected readings and critical notes David F Johnson is Professor of English Florida State University Geert H M Claassens is Professor of Middle Dutch Literature at the Katholieke Universiteit Leuven Belgium

Dutch Romances David Frame Johnson, Geert H. M. Claassens, 2000 The gem in the crown of Middle Dutch Arthurian romance the Roman van Walewein embodies the transformation of popular folktale into courtly romance in its rich variety of Arthurian motifs it stands as an equal to the masterpiece of English romance Sir Gawain and the Green Knight The framework of the romance is a tripartite series of quests in which the hero Walewein must acquire and relinquish successive marvellous objects Events are set in motion after Arthur and his knights have completed their meal when a flying chess set enters the hall Walewein embarks on a series of quests to capture it and bring it back to Arthur but to do so he must first acquire the Sword of the Two Rings for King Wonder and subsequently the fair Princess Ysabele for King Amoraen Amorijs A particularly notable feature of this romance is the way in which Walewein emerges from it as the epitome of knightly virtue at a time when in the French tradition Gauvain s reputation had sunk to its lowest This edition of the text accompanied by facing English translation will bring this important work to a wider audience it is accompanied by an introduction variants and rejected readings and critical notes David F Johnson is Professor of English Florida State University Geert H M Claassens is Professor of Middle Dutch Literature at the Katholieke Universiteit Leuven Belgium

Dutch Romances: Five interpolated romances from the Lancelot Compilation David Frame Johnson, Geert H. M. Claassens, 2000 The romances translated here are contained in the so called Lancelot Compilation MS The Hague Koninklijke Bibliotheek 129 A 10 Compiled in the early fourteenth century by five scribes its 241 extant folios contain the lion s share of Arthurian romance in Middle Dutch no fewer than ten texts The core of this compilation is comprised of translations into rhymed couplets of the Lancelot Queste Mort into which seven additional romances have been inserted The result is a compilation that successfully transforms a number of disparate texts into an ordered sequence of ten Arthurian romances a project that rivals similar ones in better known European vernaculars and bears comparison with Malory's Morte Darthur This volume presents the five romances interpolated between the Queste and the Mort the majority of which are not attested elsewhere in any other language the Wrake van Ragisel Vengeance of Raguidel the Ridder metter mouwen Romance of the Knight of the Sleeve Lancelot en het hert met de witte voet Lancelot and the Hart with the White Foot Walewein ende Keye and Torec Traditionally these romances have been separated from their context and published in separate editions and only Lancelot en het hert met de witte voet has ever appeared in English translation They are presented here in their manuscript order for the first time since 1846 the edition of Walewein ende Keye is the first to be published since that date The text and translations are accompanied by an introduction variants and rejected readings and critical notes David F Johnson is Professor of English Florida State University Geert H M Claassens is Professor of Middle Dutch Literature at the Katholieke Universiteit Leuven Belgium

Early Printed Narrative Literature in Western Europe Bart Besamusca, Elisabeth de Bruijn, Frank Willaert, 2019-11-05 The essays in this volume are concerned with early printed narrative texts in Western Europe The aim of this book is to consider to what extent the shift from hand written to printed books left its mark on narrative literature in a number of vernacular languages Did the advent of printing bring about changes in the corpus of narrative texts when compared with the corpus extant in manuscript copies Did narrative texts that already existed in manuscript form undergo significant modifications when they began to be printed How did this crucial media development affect the nature of these narratives Which strategies did early printers develop to make their texts commercially attractive Which social classes were the target audiences for their editions Around half of the articles focus on developments in the history of early printed narrative texts others discuss publication strategies This book provides an impetus for cross linguistic research It invites scholars from various disciplines to get involved in an international conversation about fifteenth and sixteenth century narrative literature
