Dying To Smoke:

Dying to Quit Janet Bringham, 1998-06-19 Historians and scientists a few millennia from now are likely to see tobacco as one of the major bafflements of our time suggests Janet Bringham Why do we smoke so much even when we know that tobacco kills more than a million of us a year Two decades ago smoking was on the decline in the United States Now the decline has flattened and smoking appears to be increasing most ominously among young people Cigar smoking is on the rise Data from a generation of young smokers indicate that many of them want to quit but have no access to effective treatment Dying to Quit features the real life smoking day of a young woman who plans to quit again Her comments take readers inside her love hate relationship with tobacco In everyday language the book reveals the complex psychological and scientific issues behind the news headlines about tobacco regulations lawsuits and settlements and breaking scientific news What is addiction Is there such a thing as an addictive personality What does nicotine do to the body How does it affect the brain Why do people stand in subzero temperatures outside office buildings to smoke cigarettes What is the impact of carefully crafted advertisements and marketing strategies Why do people who are depressed tend to smoke more What is the biology behind these common links These and many fundamental questions are explored drawing on the latest findings from the world's best addictions laboratories Want to quit Bringham takes us shopping in the marketplace of gizmos and gadgets designed to help people stop smoking from wristwatch like monitors to the lettuce cigarette She presents the bad news and the not so bad news about smoking cessation including the truth about withdrawal symptoms and weight gain And she summarizes authoritative findings and recommendations about what actually works in quitting smoking By training a behavioral scientist by gift a writing talent Bringham helps readers understand what people feel when they use tobacco or when they quit At a time when tobacco smoke has filled nearly every corner of the earth and public confusion grows amid strident claims and counterclaims in the media Dying to Quit clears the air with dispassion toward facts and compassion toward smokers This book invites readers on a fascinating journey through the world of tobacco use and points the way toward help for smokers who want to quit Janet Bringham Ph D is a research psychologist with SRI International in Menlo Park California where she studies tobacco use A former journalist and editor she has conducted substance use research at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine the National Institute on Drug Abuse and the University of Pittsburgh Dying to Smoke Robert Osborn, Fred W.
