

"Tristram could not put the book down. It is a treasure house of the Disputes, triumphs and mistakes regarding the thing we call race."

—KARL MARX, Selected Writings, trans. David Fernbach, The University of Chicago Press

“And don’t call me a racist!”

A treasury of quotes
on the past, present, and future of the color line in America

SELECTED AND ARRANGED BY Eda Mord

"This collection of quotes and insights is simply fantastic! The incredible range of thoughts and depth of understanding and feeling are sure to make a huge difference in the thinking of many people across lines of age and ethnicity. Every American should read it and, at the very least, individually reflect on how racism exists covertly and overtly in our own actions and words."

"And Don't Call Me a Racist!" Ella Mazel,1998 In this treasury of over 1 000 quotes you will find in the voices of Langston Hughes and the Delany sisters for example some of the bittersweet humor that has helped sustain blacks in this country through their long oppressive history Melba Patillo Beals almost forty years after she risked death as a teenager to integrate Central High School in Little Rock Arkansas writes in her heart wrenching memoir of that experience The task that remains is to cope with our interdependence to see ourselves reflected in every other human being and to respect and honor our differences That is the message of this book from back cover      The Measure of Ya' Blackness ,      Breaking the Code of Good Intentions Melanie E. L. Bush,2004-06-19 Breaking the Code of Good Intentions places the current day white experience within a political economic and social context by exploring the perceptions of students about identity privilege democracy intergroup relations This book documents how the everyday thinking of ordinary people contributes to the perpetuation of systemic racialized inequality and identifies opportunities to challenge these patterns with particular recommendations for the educational system of the twenty first century Visit our website for sample chapters      Special Issue: Celebrating Name's 10th Anniversary Penelope L. and perspectives Recognising that students in Southern African come from diverse cultural ethnic and linguistic backgrounds it provides discussion of issues and perspectives they can apply to everyday life and to broader contexts Voices of Foreign-born African American Teacher Educators in the United States Festus E. Obiakor,2010 This is a book that exposes silenced and invisible voices in Colleges Schools of Education These voices of African immigrants are seldom heard in serious educational quarters since most foreign born teacher educators try their very best to play by the rules as immigrant minorities However they find themselves between cultural continuity and cultural discontinuity They are pressured to do well by their families in their native countries but these pressures force them to forget home and think about survival strategies in their new found home Very often they do well and at tremendous costs Additionally they are expected to be happy and endure all kinds of mistreatments with a smile because they seem to have fewer survival options On the one hand they are generally treated as Blacks and as Blacks they encounter racist behaviours On the other hand they are treated as invisible primitive and inferior Blacks who have nothing to share and who are supposed to be seen and not heard As a consequence they endure discrimination from both native born African Americans and Whites in America Interestingly when they are confident they are labelled as arrogant troublemaker foreigner chauvinistic and so on When they are quiet they are labelled as incompetent timid naive unprepared and so on The tendency is to forget that they are human beings with aspirations to do well and contribute to their new society that is America The critical question then is how can they do well or contribute to the advancement of their new society if they are not given opportunities to learn teach serve or grow The Racial Conditioning of Our Children Nathan Rutstein,2001 Multicultural Teaching Pamela L.
