Dynamic Reconfiguration:

Dynamic Reconfiguration Ramachandran Vaidyanathan, Jerry Trahan, 2004-01-31 Dynamic Reconfiguration Architectures and Algorithms offers a comprehensive treatment of dynamically reconfigurable computer architectures and algorithms for them. The coverage is broad starting from fundamental algorithmic techniques ranging across algorithms for a wide array of problems and applications to simulations between models. The presentation employs a single reconfigurable model, the reconfigurable mesh, for most algorithms to enable the reader to distill key ideas without the cumbersome details of a myriad of models. In addition to algorithms, the book discusses topics that provide a better understanding of dynamic reconfiguration, such as scalability and computational power, and more recent advances such as optical models, run time reconfiguration on FPGA, and related platforms and implementing dynamic reconfiguration. The book, featuring many examples and a large set of exercises, is an excellent textbook or reference for a graduate course. It is also a useful reference to researchers and system developers in the area.

Component Deployment Judith Bishop, 2002-06-14 Deployment is the act of taking components and readying them for productive use. There may be steps following deployment such as installation or management related functions, but all decisions about how to configure and compose assemble a component are made at the deployment stage. This is therefore the one opportunity in the software lifecycle to bridge the gap between what the component developer couldn't know about the deployment environment and what the environment's developer couldn't know about the open set of deployable components. It is not surprising that deployment as a dedicated step gains importance when addressing issues of system wide qualities such as coping with constrained resources or preparing for component adaptation and system evolution. Yet component deployment is still a discipline in its infancy; it became mainstream practice only in the mid 1990s. Much of the best practice impulse originated in products like Microsoft's Transaction Server and its approach to attribute based programming, and later products like Enterprise JavaBeans and now the Corba Component Model. All these address the specific needs of enterprise application servers. However, the potential of the deployment concept goes far beyond this. Deployment can and should touch effectively all truly component based solutions. The proceedings of Component Deployment 2002 represent a good cross section of the gamut of deployment issues. From customization to address source constraints to reconfiguration of deployed systems and from architecture to design to languages, the avid reader will find some contribution.

Advanced Parallel Processing Technologies Xingming Zhou, Stefan Jähnichen, Ming Xu, Jiannong Cao, 2003-09-09 This volume contains the papers presented at the 5th International Workshop on Advanced Parallel Processing Technologies APPT 2003. This series of workshops is designed to strengthen the cooperation between the German and Chinese institutions active in the area of these technologies. It has continued to grow, providing an excellent forum for reporting advances in parallel processing technologies. The 5th workshop itself addressed the entire gamut of related topics ranging from the architectural aspects of parallel computer hardware and system software to the applied technologies for novel applications. For this workshop we received over 191 full submissions from researchers all over the world All the papers were peer reviewed in depth and qualitatively graded on their relevance originality significance presentation and the overall appropriateness for their acceptance Any concerns raised were discussed in the program committee The organizing committee did an excellent job in selecting 78 papers Among them 21 were short ones for presentation In short the papers included here represent the forefront of research from China Germany and the other countries
