Damnatio Memoriae Sebastian Barker, 2004 Damnatio Memoriae opens with an autobiographical sequence of poems in which he evokes post and present loves the urban landscape of London and the hidden beauties of the Lea Valley They are all occasions that point towards the reflections to come on the sacred dimension of love and the evil that arises when this dimension is lost These reflections become a springboard into the main section of the book in which Barker draws upon Christian Jewish Muslim and Ancient Near Eastern traditions to chart the search of the soul for faith in the face of cynicism cruelty corruption and despair Damnatio Memoriae is in the highest European tradition of St John of the Cross or the terrible sonnets of Gerard Manley Hopkins It is a salutary reminder that we ignore our spiritual needs at our peril Negotiating Memory from the Romans to the Twenty-First Century Øivind Fuglerud, Kjersti Larsen, Marina Prusac-Lindhagen, 2020-09-14 Manipulation of the past and forced erasure of memories have been global phenomena throughout history spanning a varied repertoire from the destruction or alteration of architecture sites and images to the banning or imposing of old and new practices. The present volume addresses these questions comparatively across time and geography and combines a material approach to the study of memory with cross disciplinary empirical explorations of historical and contemporary cases This approach positions the volume as a reference point within several fields of humanities and social sciences The collection brings together scholars from different fields within humanities and social science to engage with memorialization and damnatio memoriae across disciplines using examples from their own research The broad chronological and comparative scope makes the volume relevant for researchers and students of several historical periods and geographic regions Fragmented Memory Nicoletta Bruno, Martina Filosa, Giulia Marinelli, 2022-02-21 Chance in addition to the unavoidable ambiguity caused by time is one of the main guilty parties in the transmission of ancient texts or lack thereof However the same cannot be said for what concerns the mechanisms of selection and loss of historical and literary memory where the voluntary awareness of obscuring is often part of a precise aim thus leading the cultural memory of a literate society to become fragmented The present volume explores the devices and criteria of selection and loss in Ancient and Medieval texts and the subsequent fragmentation of such literature but it also addresses the questions of the damnatio memoriae of literary strategies such as reticence and omission as well as of known texts deemed lost but re found thanks to state of the art methods in digitization The many and diverse nuances of the concepts of omission selection and loss throughout Ancient and Medieval literature and history are illustrated through a number of case studies in the four sections of this volume each examining a different facet of the topic Mechanisms and criteria of textual loss and selection Lost texts re discovered Voluntary omissions and desire for oblivion and Re working the known Too Much Writing, Too Few Scribes: Extra-Scribal Writing in the Late Bronze Age Mediterranean (1650-1100 BCE) Cassandra M. Donnelly, 2025-05-29 Extra scribal writing encompasses a myriad of writing practices from potmarking to graffiti to text erasure often overlooked by scholars This volume examines Bronze Age eastern Mediterranean and Aegean writing on atypical media highlighting interdisciplinary insights from various fields and theoretical models Injustice, Memory and Faith in Human Rights Kalliopi Chainoglou, Barry Collins, Michael Phillips, John Strawson, 2017-07-20 This multi disciplinary collection interrogates the role of human rights in addressing past injustices. The volume draws on legal scholars political scientists anthropologists and political philosophers grappling with the weight of the memory of historical injustices arising from conflicts in Europe the Middle East and Australasia It examines the role of human rights as legal doctrine rhetoric and policy as developed by states international organizations regional groups and non governmental bodies The authors question whether faith in human rights is justified as balm to heal past injustice or whether such faith nourishes both victimhood and self justification These issues are explored through three discrete sections moments of memory and injustice addressing injustice and questions of faith In each of these sections authors address the manner in which memory of past conflicts and injustice haunt our contemporary understanding of human rights The volume questions whether the expectation that human rights law can deal with past injustice has undermined the development of an emancipatory politics of human rights for our current world The Materiality of Text - Placement, Perception, and Presence of Inscribed Texts in Classical Antiquity ,2018-10-22 Written by an international cast of experts The Materiality of Text showcases a wide range of innovative methodologies from ancient history literary studies epigraphy and art history and provides a multi disciplinary perspective on the physicality of writing in antiquity The contributions focus on epigraphic texts in order to gauge questions of their placement presence and perception starting with an analysis of the forms of writing and its perception as an act of physical and cultural intervention the volume moves on to consider the texts ubiquity and strategic positioning within epigraphic literary and architectural spaces. The contributors rethink modern assumptions about the processes of writing and reading and establish novel ways of thinking about the physical forms of ancient texts Erasure of the Antonii Names and the Dating of the Capitoline Fasti Charles Luther Babcock, 1953 Mnemotechnics and Virgil Elizabeth-Anne Scarth, 2008 Cicero Quintilian and the anonymous author of the ad Herennium each describe the art and practice of using an artificial memory system to help aid remembrance Each of the authors respective treatises offers an exploration of how both loci places and imagines images were used to facilitate remembrance of both res things and verba words The methods delineated by each author provide valuable insight into the visual process used by educated Romans to retrieve and recall information stored in their memories By understanding how remembering and recollection were inherently important to the Romans the modern reader can apprehend how Virgil as a member of the Roman elite either consciously or subconsciously would portray his characters as being familiar not only with the system of artificial memory but also with the Roman process of using different spaces and places to stimulate remembrance This book looks at the rhetoricians discussions of the art of memory and posits that Virgil uses the artificial memory system features of sequential order discriminability and distinctiveness when
