Danish in the South and the North. Volume 1: Denmark Denmark. Udenrigsministeriet. Presse- og kulturafdelingen, Bent Rying, 1981      Danish in the South and the North: Denmark, introduction, prehistory Bent Rying, 1981      Norden Uno Varjo, Wolf Tietze, Sten Rudberg, 1987 In 1960 the famous book A Geography of Norden edited by Axel Smeeth was published It has been out of press for many years In connection with a Nordic Week organized in Finland 1979 by the Pohjola Norden Society a body devoted to fostering closer relations and cooperation between the Nordic family of peoples the Geographical Society of Northern Finland invited a group of geographers from the Nordic countries to produce a new textbook on the geography of Norden A concise treatise dealing with the main geographical aspects of the Nordic countries was obtained within one volume concluded by a regional synthesis Iceland Greenland Svalbard Jan Mayen and the Faroe Islands and the seas around Norden are also extensively treated      Dania Polyglotta ,1978      Discover Denmark Per Himmelstrup, 1992      Disputing Strategies in Medieval Scandinavia ,2013-09-25 In Scandinavia the study of disputes is still a relatively new topic The papers offered here discuss how conflicts were handled in Scandinavian societies in the Middle Ages before the emergence of strong centralized states What strategies did people use to contest power property rights honour and other kinds of material or symbolic assets Seven essays by Scandinavian scholars are supplemented by contributions from Stephen White John Hudson and Gerd Althoff to provide a new baseline for discussing both the strategies pursued in the political game and those used to settle local disputes Using practice and process as key analytical concepts these authors explore formal law and litigation in conjunction with non formal legal proceedings such as out of court mediation rituals emotional posturing and feuding Their insights place the Northern medieval world in a European context of dispute studies With introductory sections on social structure sources materials and the historiography of Scandinavian dispute studies Contributors are Gerd Althoff Catharina Andersson Kim Esmark Lars Ivar Hansen Lars Hermanson John Hudson Auður G Magnúsdóttir Hans Jacob Orning Helle Vogt and Stephen D White      The New Encyclopaedia Britannica: Macropaedia : Knowledge in depth ,2003      The New Encyclopædia Britannica: Macropædia ,1991      Gods of the Earth Michael Jordan, 1992 Based on ten years of research into the many similarities between faiths widely separated by time and distance this is a comparative study of pagan religions since the dawn of time and their relationship to Christianity other deities the author traces the threads by which they are inextricably linked to modern Christianity Using ancient examples he argues that Christianity is in fact nothing new but simply a reworking of older pagan faiths      The Archaeology of Contextual Meanings Ian Hodder, 1987-08-06 This companion volume to Archaeology as Long term History focuses on the symbolism of artefacts It seeks at once to refine the theory and method relating to interpretation and show with examples how to conduct this sort of archaeological work Some contributors work with the material culture of modern times or the historic period areas in which the symbolism of mute artefacts has traditionally been thought most accessible However the book also contains a good number of applications in prehistory to demonstrate the feasibility of symbolic interpretation where good contextual data survive from the distant past In relation to wider debates within the social sciences the volume is characterised by a concern to place abstract symbolic codes within their historical context and within the contexts of social actions In this respect it develops further some of the ideas presented in Dr Hodder s Symbolic and Structural Archaeology an earlier volume in this series

Wild Things Frederick W. F. Foulds,Helen C. Drinkall,Angela R. Perri,David T.G. Clinnick,James W.P. Walker,2014-11-30 Recently Palaeolithic and Mesolithic archaeology has been breaking boundaries worldwide Finds such as the Mesolithic house at Howick the sequencing of the Neanderthal genome and the recently discovered footprints at Happisburgh all serve to indicate how archaeologists in these fields are truly at the cutting edge of understanding humanity s past This volume celebrates this trend by focusing on recent advances in the study of the Palaeolithic and Mesolithic With contributors from a diverse range of backgrounds it allows for a greater degree of interdisciplinary discourse than is often the case as the Palaeolithic and Mesolithic are generally split apart Wild Things brings together contributions from major researchers and early career specialists detailing research taking place across the British Isles France Portugal Russia the Levant and Europe as a whole providing a cross section of the exciting range of research being conducted By combining papers from both these periods it is hoped that dialogue between practitioners of Palaeolithic and Mesolithic archaeology can be further encouraged Topics include the chronology of the Mid Upper Palaeolithic of European Russia territorial use of Alpine high altitude areas by Mesolithic hunter gatherer discussing the feasibility of reconstructing Neanderthal demography to examine their extinction the funerary contexts from the Mesolithic burials at Muge the discovery of further British Upper Palaeolithic parietal art at Cathole Cave exploitation of both lithics and fauna in Palaeolithic France and an analysis of Mesolithic Neolithic trade in Europe

Trade and Exchange in Prehistory Berta Stjernquist,1988

Sea-level Change in Mesolithic Southern Scandinavia Peter Moe Astrup,2018-12-17 The seabed in southern Scandinavia contains numerous traces of a submerged landscape that is thought to be the remnant of a once important habitat for Mesolithic hunter gatherers Large parts of this landscape were gradually flooded by rising seas between 9500 and 4000 BC and perceptions of the Maglemose culture 9500 6400 BC have consequently been based almost exclusively on former inland settlements As a result Early and Late Mesolithic societies have been understood as almost diametrically opposed with regards to their reliance upon marine resources and their degree of sedentism The main objective of the book is to investigate two questions that are directly related to our current understanding of the populations of the now submerged areas 1 Do we have a representative picture of the spread of Early Mesolithic sites in southern Scandinavia or does the weighting towards inland sites reflect the fact that coastal sites have not been identified below present day sea level 2 How did sea level changes impact Mesolithic populations at different temporal and spatial scales and how were these experienced from 8000 4000 BC The book presents an extensive and up to date review of various types of evidence from the Boreal period such as faunal remains fishing instruments  $\delta^{13}C$  values in bones settlement positions and available marine resources These are used to discuss the extent to which marine resources were utilised in the Maglemose culture Another central component of this book is a series of new coastline models made to determine the Mesolithic sea level changes coastline positions The eight new coastline models are created to facilitate new evaluations of possible relationships between sea level changes and cultural changes On the basis of the new coastline models the book also presents the preliminary results of 47 diver investigations conducted with the aim of identifying potential coastal settlements from the Maglemose culture

Na'pão ,1973      Coastal Landscapes of the Mesolithic Almut Schülke,2020-03-06 Coastal Landscapes of the Mesolithic Human Engagement with the Coast from the Atlantic to the Baltic Sea explores the character and significance of coastal landscapes in the Mesolithic on different scales and with various theoretical perspectives and methodological approaches Mesolithic people were strongly connected to the sea with coastal areas vital for subsistence and communication across the water This anthology includes case studies from Scandinavia western Europe and the Baltic area presented by key international researchers Topics addressed include large scale analyses of the archaeological and geological development of coastal areas the exploration of coastal environments with interdisciplinary methods the discussion of the character of coastal settlements and of their possible networks social and economic practices along the coast as well as perceptions and cosmological aspects of coastal areas Together these topics and approaches contribute in an innovative way to the understanding of the complexity of topographically changing coastal areas as both border zones between land and sea and as connecting landscapes Providing novel insights into the study of the Mesolithic as well as coastal areas and landscapes in general the book is an important resource for researchers of the Mesolithic and coastal archaeology
