Debates And Developments In Ethnographic Methodology:

Debates and Developments in Ethnographic Methodology Geoffrey Walford, 2002 Volume 6 of this series draws together chapters presenting diverse views on developments in ethnographic methodology It covers topics such as validity in ethnographic work feminist research comparison within research public identification of research sites and research involving children Methodological Challenges and New Approaches to Research in International Development L. Camfield, 2014-05-29 Development researchers face many challenges in producing robust and persuasive analyses often within a short time frame This edited volume tackles these challenges head on using examples from other fields to provide practical guidance to research producers and users Advances in Quantitative Ethnography Barbara Wasson, Szilvia Zörgő, 2022-01-11 This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the Third International Conference on Quantitative Ethnography ICQE 2021 held in November 2021 Due to the COVID 19 pandemic the conference was held online The 26 full papers were selected from the 60 submissions The contributions in this volume come from diverse fields and perspectives and present the studies on advantages of using quantitative ethnography methods and techniques in a number of different domains and contexts including ethnography and statistics human interpretation and machine processing etc Research and Development in Clinical Nursing Practice Brenda Roe, Christine Webb, 2008-04-30 Though slogans such as nursing must be a research based profession have been around for a long time recent initiatives such as Nursing Development Units NDUs quality assurance and evidence based practice have moved nursing to the forefront amongst health professions in taking seriously the promotion of rational care based on a critical appraisal of past practices and the evaluation of new ideas and techniques This is the first book to examine research and development in clinical nursing practice It explains how to do it and how to apply it Mapping the Academic Debate Johannes Duschka, Christoph Kleine, Monika Wohlrab-Sahr, Florian Zemmin, 2024-12-16 This volume maps the international academic debate on secularity It places seminal contributions from within Western academia alongside less well known texts from various parts of the world in several cases this is the first time that they have been translated into English The volume demonstrates that the academic debate on secularity was and is a global debate with contributions from many regions The collected texts relate to each other either directly or indirectly by referring to similar arguments whether reinforcing or criticising them and thus create a discourse When speaking of global secularity we therefore do not insinuate a uniform world secularity resulting from the alleged global diffusion of Western norms ideas and concepts It is rather a web of relations that is constituted via various different references These references are not evenly distributed the development in the West is often the point of reference to which positions from other regions relate to which they connect or from which they distance themselves But the references are not completely unidirectional We also present texts from Europe that underline the multidirectionality of the process even early on Thereby the volume offers the reader the material with which to trace these global exchanges and references Natural Science Education,

Indigenous Knowledge, and Sustainable Development in Rural and Urban Schools in Kenya Darren M.

O'Hern, Yoshiko Nozaki, 2014-05-05 Through a multi sited qualitative study of three Kenyan secondary schools in rural Taita Hills and urban Nairobi the volume explores the ways the dichotomy between Western and indigenous knowledge operates in Kenyan education In particular it examines views on natural sciences expressed by the students teachers the state s curricula documents and schools exam oriented pedagogical approaches O'Hern and Nozaki question state and local education policies and practices as they relate to natural science subjects such as agriculture biology and geography and their dismissal of indigenous knowledge about environment nature and sustainable development They suggest the need to develop critical postcolonial curriculum policies and practices of science education to overcome knowledge oriented binaries emphasize sustainable development and address the problems of inequality the center and periphery divide and social cultural and environmental injustices in Kenya and by implication elsewhere In an era of environmental crisis and devastation education that supports sustainability and survival of our planet is needed Within a broader sociopolitical context of post colonialism and globalization this volume points out possibilities and challenges to achieve such an education The authors propose a critical postcolonial approach that acknowledges the contextual and situational production of all knowledge and that de dichotomizes indigenous from Western scientific knowledge Eric Rico Gutstein Professor Curriculum and Instruction University of Illinois at Chicago USA

Ivory Basement Leadership Joan Eveline, 2004

Many people fear that the ivory tower is crumbling Of urgent concern are deteriorating standards fewer jobs waning professional prestige and new layers of inequity Leadership in the tower is easy to spot It is hierarchical detached and mostly male In this highly readable book Joan Eveline turns her acute gaze to the ivory basement where the corridors departments laboratories and offices are peopled There she observes a greedy organization cannibalizing the efforts energy and care of the basement s workers most of whom are women Voices from the basement of the University of Western Australia but it could be any university speak about the devaluing of their work Eveline detects a new linkage through shared experience of administrative staff research assistants and the lower order of academics who increasingly are casual workers And she discerns a courageous and almost invisible exercise of leadership This post heroic leadership values personal relationship loyalty and diversity It is creative flexible and above all collaborative This book will hearten those dismayed by the restructuring pandemic For ivory basement workers have in adversity forged a leadership model that might well be mobilized to revive Australia s ailing universities

Tourism and Development in Southeast Asia Claudia Dolezal,Alexander Trupp,Huong T. Bui,2020-03-24 This book analyses the role tourism plays for sustainable development in Southeast Asia It seeks to assesses tourism s impact on residents and localities across the region by critically debating and offering new understandings of its dynamics on the global and local levels Offering a myriad of case studies from a range of different countries in the region this book is interdisciplinary in nature thereby presenting a comprehensive overview of tourism s current and future role in development Divided into four parts it discusses the nexus of tourism and development at both the regional and national levels with a focus on theoretical and methodological foundations protected areas local communities and broader issues of governance Contributors from within and outside of Southeast Asia raise awareness of the local challenges including issues of ownership or unequal power relations and celebrate best practice examples where tourism can be regarded as making a positive difference to residents life The first edited volume to examine comprehensive analysis of tourism in Southeast Asia as both an economic and social phenomenon through the lens of development this book will be useful to students and scholars of tourism development Southeast Asian culture and society and Asian Studies more generally

Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts ,1997 Caṭṭagrāma
Biśvabidyālaya Sṭādīja ,1994-11 Development Professionals in Northern Thailand Katharine Islay McKinnon,2011

Development promises higher incomes better livelihoods social justice and emancipation but decades of good intentions have left hill communities in Northern Thailand with high rates of drug addiction and poverty and a loss of traditional knowledge and values A former volunteer and development specialist who spent much of her childhood in the region Katharine McKinnon set out to consider what has gone wrong by studying professionals involved in development work How she asks did the highlands come to be seen as needing development And why did the presence of well intentioned developers still leave behind so much apparent misery and hardship Returning to the region to conduct an ethnography of development professionals McKinnon found that the majority were dedicated to ideals of altruism emancipation and advocacy for local people and resigned to the inevitable failures and shortcomings that emerge when development efforts are co opted by geopolitics Her book is an account of the everyday efforts and struggles of those who do development consultants researchers government officials NGO workers and village partners Taking a critical approach to post development theory she argues that politics and ideology are an intrinsic part of development work and argues that an active engagement with the politics of development is essential for professionals hoping to make a difference

Methods in Development Research Jeremy Holland,John Campbell,2005 Over the past decade there has been an increasingly receptive audience for participatory and qualitative research methods by policy makers development practitioners and academics working in applied research At the same time there is an increasing awareness that the value of research can be enhanced through a more systematic combination of quantitative and qualitative methods While this recent interest has begun to provide useful pointers as to how development research might be improved it has also given rise to certain problems This book will draw together lessons about emerging best practice with regard to combining qualitative and quantitative methods and approaches to generate numbers from qualitative participatory methods and to monitor and evaluate development processes It will build and expand upon innovation and reflection from practice in developing and developed societies from within development agencies and academia government departments and civil society organizations By drawing on current research in many sectors and countries the book will situate current development research issues squarely within debates about development policy and social research and it will help begin the process of defining best practice in the use of participatory qualitative and quantitative methods and issues of methodological triangulation which are of considerable interest to academics practitioners and policy makers A genuine how to manual which combines best practice and new innovations and presents fascinating material for academics practitioners and policy makers
