Imperial Japan and the World, 1931-1945: Foreign policy and diplomacy, 1931-1945 Antony Best, 2011 The transformation of Japan between 1931 and 1941 into an expansionist and potentially hegemonic power that threatened the stability of the international order in East Asia is a topic central to understanding the region's history. Study of this period is often conceptualized using an overly narrow framework within distinct sub-disciplines such as diplomatic, economic and intellectual.

Victory in Europe, 1945 Arnold A. Offner, Theodore A. Wilson, 2000 In this collection senior scholars explore the transition from war to uneasy peace, how and why the war ended as it did, whether a different resolution was possible and if the ensuing Cold War was inevitable.

Harry S. Truman and the Cold War Revisionists Robert H. Ferrell, 2006-05 Ferrell argues that revisionists are often hasty and argumentative in their judgments, understanding neither the times nor the players. These essays challenge the revisionists' perception of President Harry Truman by going below surface appearances of history to examine how this presidency actually functioned in response to unprecedented problems and crises. The Making of the Atom Bomb Victoria Sherrow, 2000 Discusses various topics connected to the production of the atom bomb, including the development of nuclear energy, work on atomic weapons at the Los Alamos and other sites, and the decision to use the first atomic bomb during World War II.

Making Things Public Bruno Latour, Peter Weibel, 2005 This collection itself presents a significant public assembly, joining such prominent thinkers as Richard Rorty, Simon Schaffer, Peter Galison and Peter Sloterdijk with the likes of Shakespeare, Swift, La Fontaine and Melville. Ranging from the distant past to the troubled present, this collective effort examines the atmospheric conditions in which things are made public and reinvests political representation with the materiality it has been lacking. This book and the ZKM show that it accompanies aims to trigger new political passions and interests in a time when people need more than ever new ways to have their voices heard.
