Perceptions of time contributed to recent Western military failings The decline of the West is once again a frequent topic of speculation Often cited as one element of the alleged decline is the succession of prolonged and unsuccessful wars most notably those waged in recent decades by the United States This book by three Danish military experts examines not only the validity of the speculation but also asks why the West particularly its military effectiveness might be perceived as in decline Temporality is the central concept linking a series of structural fractures that leave the West seemingly muscle bound overwhelmingly powerful in technology and military might but strategically fragile This temporality the authors say is composed of three interrelated dimensions trajectories perceptions and pace First Western societies to tend view time as a linear trajectory focusing mostly on recent and current events and leading to the framing of history as a story of rise and decline The authors examine whether the inevitable fall already has happened is underway or is still in the future Perceptions of time also vary across cultures and periods shaping socio political activities including warfare The enemy for example can be perceived as belong to another time being backward or barbarian And war can be seen either as cyclical or exceptional helping frame the public's willingness to accept its violent and tragic consequences The pace of war is another factor shaping policies and actions Western societies emphasize speed the shorter the war the better even if the long term result is unsuccessful Ironically one of the Western world's least successful wars also has been America's longest in Afghanistan This unique book is thus a critical assessment of the evolution and future of Western military power It contributes much needed insight into the potential for the West's political and institutional renewal American Book Publishing Record

Cumulative 1998 R R Bowker Publishing,1999-03 Strategy in the Contemporary World John Baylis,James J. Wirtz,Colin S. Gray,2016 This book offers a comprehensive introduction to the role of military power in today's world It explores both the enduring and historical issues which have shaped the study of strategy and the contemporary issues that dominate today's headlines Tensions and Convergences Reinhard Heil,Andreas Kaminski,Marcus Stippak,Alexander Unger,Marc

Ziegler,2015-07-15 This book presents results of an international conference which addressed the interaction of aesthetic and technological dimensions within the formation of contemporary society The contributions discuss the production of time and space self and nature individual and society in the image of technology They focus on the productive tensions and convergences between aesthetic and technological concepts when implemented in everyday life The volume contains among others texts about technologies of visualisation the aesthetics of warfare and the design of technological lifeworlds

Technology and the Evolution of Naval Warfare 1851-2001 Karl Lautenschlager,1984 Napoleon's Last Victory and the Emergence of Modern War Robert M. Epstein,1994 Presenting a significant new interpretation of Napoleonic warfare Robert M Epstein argues persuasively that the true origins of modern war can be found in the Franco Austrian War of 1809 Epstein contends that the 1809 war with its massive and evenly matched armies multiple theaters of operation new command and control schemes increased firepower frequent stalemates and large scale slaughter had more in common with the American Civil War and subsequent conflicts than with the decisive Napoleonic campaigns that preceded it Jacket flap

The Future Battlefield Malik J. Mohan,1997 Strategic Management of Military Capabilities ,2013 In preparing for the future which is the core exercise of strategic management it is essential for a country to anticipate and assess various risks that could arise and to realize disruptive innovations ahead of others that would reverse the position of advantage between their country and others The possible ways to accomplish these goals would include investing limited resources selectively and intensively into areas expected to grow in the future procuring from abroad resources that are too scarce domestically for achieving declared goals and deliberately establishing a system that would make an organization and its functions change daily in order to speedily cope with changes in environment and competitive conditions This expertise is already established in the study of management how to apply it to processes of operating military organizations and of setting military strategies are the themes of strategic management Weapons & Warfare: Modern weapons and warfare (since 1500) ,2002 Combat Journal ,1999 Journal of the Society for Army Historical Research ,1989

Quest for Decisive Victory Robert Michael Citino,2002 Since the earliest days of warfare military operations have followed a predictable formula after a decisive battle an army must pursue the enemy and destroy its organization in order to achieve a victorious campaign But by the mid 19th century the emergence of massive armies and advanced weaponry and the concomitant decline in the effectiveness of cavalry had diminished the practicality of pursuit producing campaigns that bogged down short of decisive victory Great battles had become curiously indecisive decisive campaigns virtually impossible
